Squeaky gets life

SACRAMENTO, Calif. (UPI) — Lynette "Squeaky" Fromme, screaming and striking the prosecutor's head with an apple, was sentenced to life in prison Wednesday for trying to assassinate President Ford.

U.S. District Court Judge Thomas J. MacBride pronounced the historic maximum sentence after calling her Sept. 5 attempt on Ford a "most reprehensible and despicable crime."

He said the Manson cultist could not be rehabilitated and castigated her for holding the "false and distorted belief that only violence" will achieve her ends.

Miss Fromme threatened the judge and midway in the tumultous hearing she hurled an apple she had drawn from her sleeve and struck U.S. Attorney Dwayne Keyes with it above the right eye when he asked for the life sentence. She said the apple had been intended for the judge.

Miss Fromme, the first person convicted of attempted assassination of a president, struggled and fought with federal marshals and finally was carried from the courtroom, screaming: "Quit pushing!"

The judge said he had searched in vain for any

Stevens approved

WASHINGTON (UPI) — John Paul Stevens was unanimously confirmed by the Senate Wednesday to become a justice of the Supreme Court, bringing the high tribunal up to its full strength.

Stevens won Senate approval 98 to 0 after less than five minutes of debate in which Judiciary Committee Chairman James O. Eastland predicted the Chicago U.S. Appeals Court judge "will make a great justice."

Stevens, 55, who will be the 101st justice to be placed on the nine-member court, succeeds Justice William O. Douglas who retired Nov. 12 because of poor health.

He will be sworn in Friday in a public ceremony at the Supreme Court.

Senators Birch Bayh, D-Ind., and James Allen, D-Ala., were the only senators not voting on the nomination.

The vote reflected the ease with which Stevens sailed through his confirmation hearings last week, evoking little significant opposition with the exception of women's rights groups who criticized his rulings in several sex discrimination cases.

Stevens' remark during his hearings that the con-

'Joke' may end with $1,500 punchline

by JOE SWICKARD

"It's a joke," admits John Pancrantz, but the punchline could be a $1,500 fine for him.

And like all jokes it stops being funny the fourth time around.

Pancrantz, Arlington Heights, operates the Chicago Hospital Supply Corp., 750 Algonquin Rd., but he was spending Wednesday afternoon in court because of the way he has the Laseke Disposal Co. haul his trash.

It is alleged, and he admits, that the trash from his office is being picked up at his home. At issue is the manner in which the trash gets from the office to the home and into the Laseke truck.

I EMPTY THE wastebaskets into a couple of small plastic bags," Pancrantz said, holding his hands about a foot apart, "and I put them in my car and take them home."

Thus the conflict arises. Laseke has the exclusive trash hauling contract within the village. A violation of the Laseke contract is a violation of village ordinances, and Pancrantz is charged with violating three sections of that contract.

Specifically, he is charged with: (1) transporting refuse in other than an authorized packer (truck); (2) removing trash in an unauthorized manner, and (3) disposing of trash in an unauthorized manner.

The offenses carry a maximum fine of $500 per day on each count.

After sitting for 90 minutes in Associate Judge Charles A. Alfano's court, Pancrantz was called to the bar of justice.

THIS IS THE fourth time in court on this," he said, holding up the appropriate number of fingers.

Village Prosecutor Ernest Blomquist acknowledged the defendant's "point of view is not unreasonable," but requested a conference before the court decided, adding the village's case has merit as well.

"How can you say that," Pancrantz asked, "when three times the court has said that the village position has no merit?"

Indeed, this was the fourth time he had answered the call of justice to tell the court what he does. On each previous occasion the court has agreed with him.

Alfano continued the case until Jan. 21, 1976.

OUTSIDE THE courtroom, Pancrantz explained his side of the situation.

His office has six employes who generate waste paper in the line of their work. That amount for one week fills the two litter bags he puts in his car and takes home.

"I'm living up to the law. Laseke Disposal Co. picks up the trash," he said.

But they don't pick it up at his office.

"Laseke never asked me for my business. I don't give my business to people who don't ask for it," he said.

A SPOKESMAN for Laseke was unavailable for comment after the court session.

Pancrantz said he had no idea of the cost of having the waste paper picked up on Algonquin Road. A check with the village health department, which oversees the garbage collection showed the minimum commercial rate is $3.82 per cubic yard per pick up.

But the cost isn't the issue, Pancrantz said.

"It's the same as recycling. Are they going to ticket everybody who carries newspapers to a recycling center?" he asked.

Health inspectors viewed his office and find no violations other than his carrying the waste paper home.

"If I lose, I'll pay the fine. But I don't see how I can. The other three times, It's been dismissed," he said.

But Wednesday there was no dismissal, and like most other afternoon dramas, this one is to be continued . .

Residents likely to pay more for garbage pickup

Arlington Heights residents likely will pay at least 45 cents more each month for garbage pickup despite the village board's rejection Monday of increases proposed by its finance committee.

Residents also can expect the rate hikes to be retroactive to Jan. 1, although the village board will not receive a new proposal until at least Jan. 5.

The village board Monday disagreed on whether increased fuel costs and higher social security payments constituted "unusual charges" and voted 5-4 against the 9.8 per cent increase for residential garbage pickup.

BUT ONLY 8.2 cents of the 53 cent monthly increase recommended by the finance committee is to cover these two areas.

Assistant Village Mgr. Frank Charlton said 6.7 cents of the proposed increase was to cover extra fuel costs for the Laseke Disposal Co. and 1.5 cents was for extra social security costs for the company.

Under an exclusive five year contract with the village, Laseke Disposal is automatically entitled to a 5 per cent annual increase. It can also request additional raises based on documentation of extraordinary increases in its business costs.

Under this clause, the finance committee accepted requests from Laseke for reimbursement of the extra fuel and social security costs as well as the extra disposal costs the company now faces at the Wauconda Landfill. Only the latter, which amounts to 22.8 cents of the monthly residential increase, was accepted by village trustees during discussion Monday night.

TRUSTEE Alice Harms said the contract should have been "tightened up" where it discusses "unusual charges" and strongly opposed reimbursement for Laseke's increased fuel and social security costs.

"It is evident to me from the minutes from finance committee meetings during negotiations on this contract that materials should not be included," she said. "And you can't tell me FICA (social security payments) is an unusual increase either. They have been going up regularly."

Old Man Winter debuts early

Old Man Winter isn't officially expected for four days, but subzero weather was forecast for the area today with the wind-chill factor hovering about 20 degrees below zero.

The temperature in the suburbs and outlying areas was expected to range from 0 to 5 below early today, a U.S. Weather Service spokesman said. That, combined with an average 10 miles per hour wind, will put a chill in the Christmas season.

The wind-chill factor dipped to 18 below Wednesday with a 9-degree temperature cupled with winds ranging from 10 to 18 m.p.h.

The projected high temperature for today is 10 to 15 degrees, and sunny skies are forecast.

The cold air was being swept down from Canada where temperatures plunged 25 to 30 degrees below zero.

The spokesman said the subzero weather will not persist and it will start warming up tonight. The temperature is expected to climb into the 20s on Friday.

Interchange won't be ready til 1980

It will be 1980 at the earliest before the proposed Interstate-90 Biesterfield Road interchange in Elk Grove Village will be completed, a state highway official said Wednesday. Cesar Nepomuceno of the highway department outlined the necessary steps and accompanying timetable for a group of Elk Grove Village officials. Nepomuceno said the earliest the state could conduct a public hearing on the interchange would be in about six months. It would then take up to 18 months to gain federal approval for the project, Nepomuceno told the group. Federal officials have given preliminary approval for the interchange. Elk Grove officials have sought the interchange since 1971 but their initial efforts were rejected by the federal government. Officials of Alexian Brothers Medical Center back the proposal, saying it would provide better access to the hospital.

Earlier lottery drawings

Lottery ticket holders will be able to find out if they're winners earlier in the day starting Dec. 25. Illinois Lottery Supt. Ralph Batch announced Wednesday the regular weekly drawings on the 50-cent ticket game will be moved to new times. Batch said on Christmas the drawing will be at 10:50 a.m. at WGN television studios in Chicago. On every Thursday thereafter, he said, the weekly winning numbers will be drawn at 4:30 p.m. in a ceremony broadcast on WGN. But the weekly bonanza winners will be announced in a separate show to be broadcast at 6:30 p.m. Saturdays, beginning Dec. 27. Batch said the lottery decided to announce winning numbers early in the day so more newspapers can carry them in early editions and radio and television can broadcast them on early evening newscasts. "Another advantage is that by selecting the bonanza winners on Saturday evening, it will be more convenient for bonanza qualifiers to attend the drawings," he said.

Park, history unit merger talks

The Wheeling Park Board tonight will discuss a possible merger between the park district and the Wheeling Historical Society. Representatives of the historical society last month asked the park board to consider affiliation because of the advantages of such a move. Historical society officials cite as an advantage the park district's ability to levy a museum tax for maintenance and improvements. State statutes allow park districts to levy a nonreferendum museum tax of 1.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation. Several neighboring park districts — including Palatine, Elk Grove Village and Buffalo Grove — have used these funds to develop historical museums.

State OKs S-curve work

Improvements to the S-curve on Elmhurst Road in Mount Prospect have won state approval, and construction will begin this summer. The project will include widening of the S-curve lanes to 11 feet with installation of a traffic signal at Lincoln Street. The controversial project won village board approval in September, and the state gave preliminary approval to the project earlier this month. The village has sought improvements for the S-curve for two years since the state granted tentative approval for a traffic signal in the area. Parents had called for the signal, saying the area was unsafe for school children to cross the street. Opponents of the road work say the improvements could mean the loss of a large number of trees.

Pay hike for state workers

5 GOP senators protest raises

by STEVE BROWN

Three area Republican state senators and two of their downstate colleagues threatened Wednesday to attempt blocking a proposed 4 per cent pay increase for 14,000 state workers.

State senators John Graham, R-Barrington; John Nimrod, R-Skokie; David Regner, R-Mount Prospect; Harber Hall, R-Bloomington, and Robert Mitchler, R-Oswego, were all critical of a proposed settlement between the American Federation of State, County and Municipal Employes and the state.

State officials estimated the pay hike, which would go to workers in the departments of corrections, mental health and children and family services will cost about $10 million.

"This is totally irresponsible," Nimrod said. He questioned how the governor could veto funds for Illinois schools and then turn around and propose a pay increase.

GRAHAM CHARGED at a Springfield press conference that the proposed pay increases are an attempt by Walker to "enhance his political stature" with the union.

Walker said the proposed pay increases will not require the General Assembly to approve a deficiency appropriation next spring.

The money to cover the pay hike will be found through austerity in the affected agencies, Walker said.

Nimrod predicted that the funds would not be available and said new projections prepared by the Senate Fiscal Committee indicated the state will receive $29 million less during the current fiscal year than had been projected by the State Bureau of the Budget in October.

"THIS COULD GIVE us a $100 million to $200 million deficit by the end of the year," Nimrod said. Some state officials have already predicted a similar deficit.

Nimrod said the fiscal committee, which is composed of members of the senate appropriations and revenue committees, will meet early next month with the heads of several state departments to review fiscal conditions.

He was also critical of the method by which the agreement was reached. He said the Office of Collective Bargaining, which was created by Walker, sent the unresolved pay hike dispute to a factfinder and decided to accept the factfinder's recommendation without consulting the legislature.

Walker had predicted earlier this year that the state could not afford any pay raises because of fiscal problems.

Nimrod said it appears the governor will pay for the increases by transferring funds within the various departments.

"If the funds are available, we ought to look at how much there is and determine some priorities," he said.

Medusa in another dreaded visit

United Press International

The Medusa Challenger, the nemesis of Chicago River bridges, struck again Wednesday.

The 562-foot cement ship is so tall the bridges must be raised whenever it passes through, and so long that at least two bridges must be up at once.

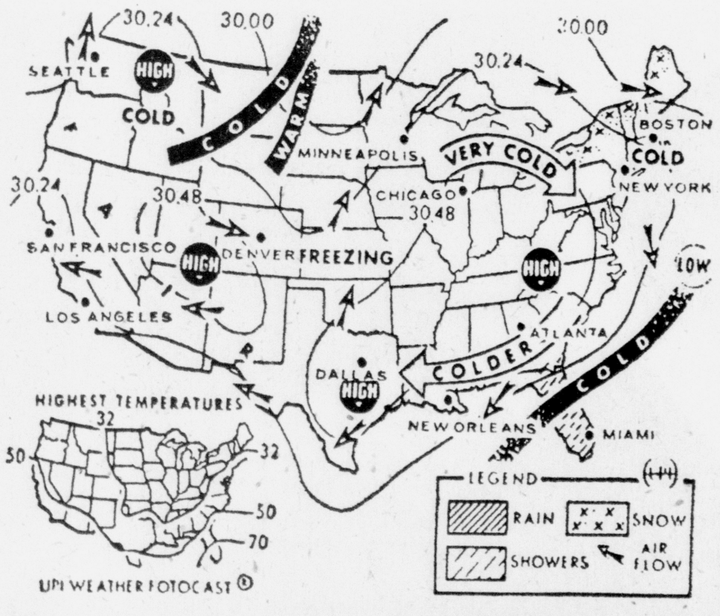

Wednesday, both the Dearborn and Clark street bridges were up and the Medusa was waiting for the State Street bridge to open. But the lock mechanism on that bridge was frozen in 12-degree temperatures.

Police said there was "quite a bit" of traffic tied up, and estimated the whole incident took an hour.

Medusa in Greek mythology turned people to stone when they looked at her face. In Chicago, the Medusa does it to drivers.

Squeaky sentenced to life

mitigating circumstances which could permit him to ease the sentence and had read a 130-page document sent to him after the trial by the 27-year-old follower of mass murderer Charles Manson.

MacBride said the document gave her own account of thrusting a .45-caliber automatic at Ford in a crowd of well-wishers, discussed her environmental concerns and attempted to justify the 1969 Tate-La Bianca murders by the Manson clan.

"I am convinced that you would murder or cause others to murder because of your false and distorted belief that violence can save the environment," said the judge who was frequently interrupted by the screaming Miss Fromme. "Our most precious natural resource is human life.

"John Kennedy, Robert Kennedy and Martin Luther King could have accomplished more for the environment and mankind than any band of terrorists, including you and Charles Manson."

Miss Fromme shouted, "I want Manson out! We have 10 years of air and water and that's not very long. I held up the gun and said don't make me shoot. You kept saying, 'Do it, do it, do it.' I think I have done all I can save killing you.

"You fool, I'm just trying to save your life. The International People's Court of Retribution will give you what you deserve."

Meantime, It was learned that MacBride has been given bodyguard protection by federal marshals.

The sentence, the first life term handed down by MacBride in his 14 years on the bench, carries the possibility of parole in 15 years. The Bureau of Prisons will decide where she will be imprisoned.

At one point, MacBride theatened to tie her to a wheelchair and gag her.

The judge also called himself as his own witness to discuss letters he received from Miss Fromme and to verify that she wrote a letter ordering a Pennsylvania man to kill a Kaiser Industries Corp. executive and his wife and to paint their bodies with pink paint.

"You cannot be rehabilitated," the judge said.

"I cannot be rehabilitated because I have done nothing wrong," she blurted.

The acrimonious exchanges occurred after the judge denied a motion for a new trial. Miss Fromme announced she personally will handle her appeal.

Defense attorney John Virga made a weak-voiced appeal for a lesser sentence, repeating his argument that she intended only to threaten Ford — not kill him.

"If Miss Fromme intended to kill the President, he would have been dead," he said.

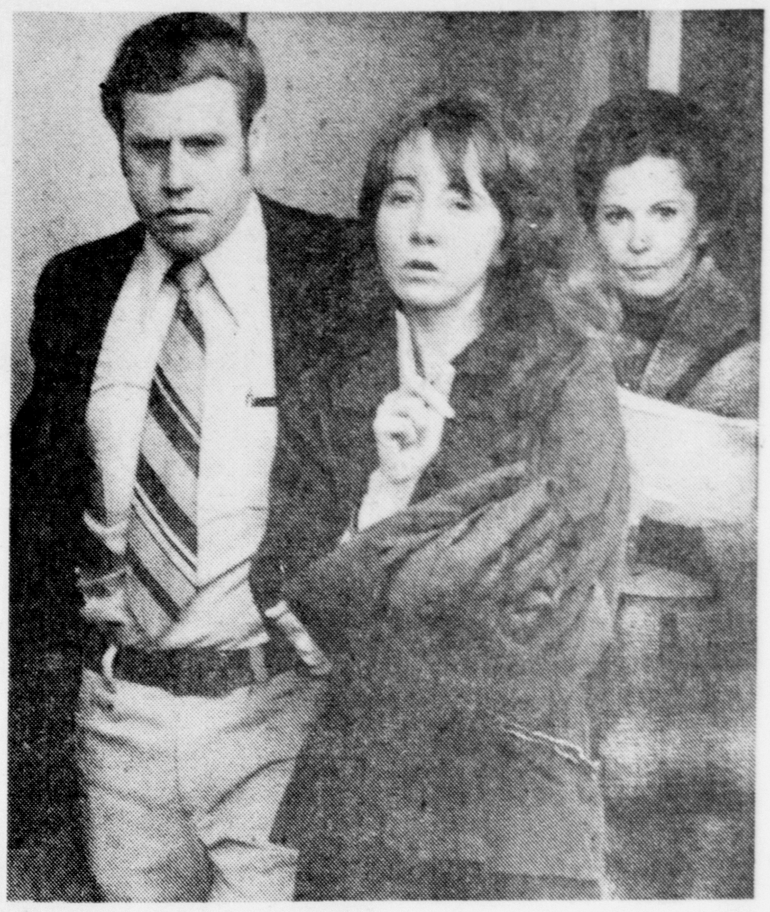

"You don't have to do that," Miss Fromme told the attorney.

The judge said if Miss Fromme had succeeded in killing Ford, "she would have impoverished the nation." He said his only choice was to separate her from society for the "rest of your natural life."

Several of the dozen marshals in the courtroom rushed toward Miss Fromme as she refused to return to her cell voluntarily. Three marshals carried her at their waist level out of the courtroom.

"You animals!" shouted Sandra Good, a fellow Manson cultist sitting in the jampacked courtroom.

Miss Fromme screamed unintelligibly at the top of her lungs after she was carried from the courtroom.

LYNETTE FROMME gestures as she leaves federal courthouse in Sacramento after being sentenced to life in prison. Minutes earlier she had a fight with U.S. marshals.

Ford vetoes tax cut extension measure

WASHINGTON (UPI) — President Ford vetoed the 1976 tax cut bill hours after Congress approved it Wednesday, setting the stage for an override attempt on Thursday.

Ford accused the Democratic-controlled Congress of playing election year politics with "the federal cash register" by refusing to include a ceiling on federal spending within the tax break bill.

The bill, passed by voice vote in each house earlier Wednesday, would extend 1975's income tax cuts for six months into 1976.

The House anticipated the instant veto and tentatively scheduled an attempt to override it Thursday. The vote there was expected to be close, but if House Democrats muster the two thirds majority they need, the Senate seems certain to follow suit and force the bill into law.

If the House fails, weekly withholding taxes for most Americans will rise a few dollars early in January.

"The Congress offers only to keep a temporary lid on taxes while leaving the federal cash register wide open to whatever spending Congress wants to take out in an election year," Ford said in a personal appearance before White House reporters to announce his veto.

In his formal veto message, Ford reminded Congress he had promised this all along.

"I have clearly stated ever since last Oct. 6 that I would veto any tax cut if you failed to cut future federal spending at the same time . . .," he said.

"I want a larger tax cut in 1976 than we have had in 1975 — $28 billion to be exact — while the bill before me merely extends this year's tax rate which works out to about $18 billion a year . . .

"But I want any cut in federal tax revenues coupled with a cut in the runaway growth of federal spending."

Ford told Congress — which adjourns for the holidays Friday — it still has time "before Christmas to send me back a tax cut extension for 1976 coupled with a clear commitment to cut the growth of spending. . .

"I am willing and waiting to sign such legislation . . .

"I am returning this half-way legislation and asking you to send me a bill that goes all the way," he said.

There seemed no possibility Congress would consider any such thing, however, and Ford told reporters he knows "the differences between Congress and me are deep."

Ford has said repeatedly he would veto any tax bill that does not contain a ceiling on fiscal 1977 federal spending. Democrats say they will enact a spending ceiling, but only next year after they see Ford's budget.

The House rejected a last-ditch GOP effort to attach a $395 billion spending ceiling to the bill.

The Senate, where support for the bill was overwhelming, passed the bill by voice vote.

The House, considered the weaker of the two houses in any override vote, surprisingly passed the bill by voice vote. House Republicans did not call for a roll call vote, apparently because they feared defections in their own ranks that might indicate a veto could be overridden.

One year after Ford's plea:

Energy legislation to White House

WASHINGTON (UPI) — The Senate Wednesday completed congressional approval of a comprehensive energy bill that includes reductions in oil prices. The vote was 58 to 40.

Energy advisers to Ford said the President had not decided whether to sign or veto the bill.

The legislation, approved Monday by the House, clears Congress nearly one year after Ford called for domestic energy independence. It would:

- Slightly reduce the average price of oil per barrel.
- Authorize emergency gasoline rationing.
- Force automakers to meet gasoline mileage standards.
- Set in motion government and industry conservation plans.
- Establish a strategic reserve of oil.
- And keep oil price controls for at least 40 more months.

"The truth is, the bill will not lower prices at the gasoline pump," Sen. John G. Tower, R-Tex., said. "Congress in its zeal to fabricate an election-year sop for the voting public is without just cause to tinker and toy with the domestic petroleum industry."

But. Sen. Henry M. Jackson, D-Wash., said the bill "will serve the nation far better" than Ford's policy, which at one time called for immediate lifting of price controls on oil.

The bill would set an average domestic oil price of $7.66 per barrel with the President able to vary prices for different types of oil. He could also raise that average as much as 10 per cent a year.

The current average price is $8.75.

Democrats said the forced reduction would mean American drivers would pay 1.5 cents to 3.5 cents less per gallon of gasoline at the pump.

Tower disputed that, because gasoline companies have some costs they have yet to pass through in retail prices and those could dilute the effects of the initial rollback.

Autos in the 1978 model year would have to average 18 miles per hour, or their makers could face fines. The 1979 standard would be 19 and 1980s 20 miles.

Major household appliances would have to be labeled for energy efficiency.

A billion-barrel domestic oil reserve in storage would be established.

The President could order gasoline rationing in an emergency such as an oil embargo, with congressional right of veto.

Speaker Carl Albert called the energy bill of major accomplishment of the Democratic-dominated Congress.

But. Sen. Lloyd M. Bentsen, D-Tex., said, ' It attempts to roll back gasoline prices until we are safely past the 1976 elections, while creating price uncertainty for domestic oil and gas producers over the next three years."

Angola group hits U. S. funds for rivals

UNITED NATIONS (UPI) — The Soviet-backed Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola Wednesday accused the United States of sending more than $150 million in military aid to two rival guerrilla groups.

Popular Movement representative Elicio de Figueiredo told a news conference he knew of no U. S. combat troops in Angola. But he said American mercenaries were in the country.

"We gather that much, much more than $150 million has been used in armaments by the United States for Angola," he said.

Figueiredo also said American military advisers were training troops in neighboring Zaire to fight against Popular Movement guerrillas in Angola.

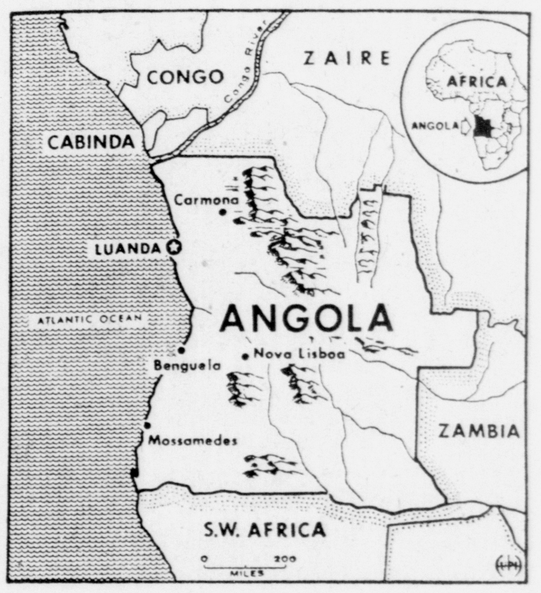

In Washington the administration has begun an intensive diplomatic initiative to convince the Soviet Union to reduce its profile in Angola and head off a confrontation with the United States, an administration source said.

The source said contacts were being made with the Soviets in both Washington and Moscow under the personal direction of Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger, who kept in close touch with the situation during his just-ended European trip. The effort was said to have the full support of President Ford.

While details of the U. S. effort were not disclosed, Kissinger presumably hopes to convince the Soviets to halt or scale down aid to the pro-Soviet faction struggling for control of the former Portugese colony.

Senate liberals, meanwhile, pressed their drive to cut $33 million in covert military aid to Angola from the defense spending bill.

The liberals and their allies emerged from an extraordinary secret floor debate on U. S. involvement in Angola's civil war determined to slash the $112.4 million Pentagon weapons bill by $33 million — what they call "an educated guess" as to the amount of secret Angola support funds hidden in the bill.

"I am completely and totally opposed to one cent, one person or one ounce of effort being expended in Angola." Sen. Lowell Weicker, R-Conn., said after the morning's debate. "A loud 'No' to the President, Dr. Kissinger and those senators who want to nibble around Angola's wdges."

As the closed-door debate went on with even official congressional stenographers banished from the chamber, the White House issued its second clarifying statement on Angola policy in two days.

"There are no U.S. government-sponsored advisers in Angola," deputy press secretary William Greener told a White House news briefing.

troversial Equal Rights Amendment may have only "symbolic importance," sparked opposition among women's rights advocates who said he was "insensitive" to their complaints.

But the former antitrust attorney steadfastly insisted he was "free of prejudice against either sex in cases involving equality of rights" and "would not have written the rulings any differently.

"I think women should have exactly the same rights under the law as men but I don't think they should win every case they file," he testified.

Just before confirmation, Sen. Adlai Stevenson, D-Ill., said he could not recall "a nominee who has received such universal support.

"He will bring to the Sureme Court a moderate-conservative view of the court's traditional functions," Stevenson said.

During the hearings, Stevens outlined a strict view of the court's role in deciding constitutional questions.

"Judges should refrain from reaching out for issues and decide each case on its own facts," he said.

Sen. Roman Hruska, R-Neb., said Stevens had undergone an "exhaustive" examination by the FBI, the Justice Dept. and the Judiciary Committee.

He submitted a detailed report to the committee on his finances and his tax returns for the past 10 years, listing a net worth of over $171,000.

Despite open heart surgery last year to correct a blocked artery, Stevens says he is in "perfect health" and has been cleared by his doctors to continue flying light aircraft.

260 pounds of gold found on plane

Two-hundred-sixty pounds of gold valued at more than $500,000, possibly stolen and bound for Saudi Arabia, has been found aboard a chartered plane. The charter company said another $800,000 in gold is missing. Patrick T. O'Brien, special agent in charge of investigations for the U.S. Customs Office in Charleston, S.C. said Wednesday the 118 bars of gold, weighing 2.2 pounds each, were brought into this country illegally on a DC8 owned by Overseas National Airlines Co., a private charter service based in New York. "I have reason to believe that the gold was stolen," O'Brien said, although he added the Saudi Arabian owner had not filed a formal notice of theft.

14-week U.N. session comes to a close

The U.N General Assembly's 1975 session drew to a close Wednesday, ending a new chapter of diplomatic reversals for the United States and setbacks for Israel. The 14-week session probably will be remembered most for passing a resolution equating Zionism with racism despite strenuous opposition from the United States and Israel.

Burger asked to block election funds

Chief Justice Warren E. Burger was asked Wednesday to block the Federal Election Commission from distributing the first $6 million in federal campaign funds to nine 1976 presidential contenders. Former Sen. Eugene McCarthy, an independent presidential candidate, Sen. James L. Buckley, R-N.Y., and others asked Burger to hold up the funds until the Supreme Court rules on their suit challenging the constitutionality of the 1974 campaign reform act which provides the federal matching funds.

Ex-suana manager sought in Quinlan case

Studying the possibility of foul play in the events that led to Karen Ann Quinlan's lapse into a coma, New Jersey state police Wednesday sought the former manager of a sauna that was the focus of an investigation into prostitution. Authorities were trying to determine whether someone could have beaten Karen last April before she fell into unconsciousness. The man sought by investigators was Donald Frank Trepiccione, 33, who managed the Holiday Sauna in Rockaway, N.J., until last January.

Castro lashes out at 'yankee imperialism'

Fidel Castro Wednesday lashed out at the United States and reaffirmed his country's alliance with the Soviet Union in an address to more than 3,000 delegates at the opening session of the first Communist Party Congress. Castro's speech at Havana's Karl Marx Theater included his customary barbs against "Yankee imperialism" and praise of Soviet-Cuban friendship. Most of the speech was devoted to a recounting of the accomplishments of the Cuban revolution during his 16 years in power.

Storm drives gunmen from Beirut streets

A blinding storm succeeded Wednesday where security forces had failed in driving Christian and Moslem gunmen from the war-littered streets of Beirut. The cabinet met briefly under President Suleiman Franjieh to discuss ways of shoring up the 16th cease-fire in Lebanon's eight-month-old civil war. Sporadic clashes died down in suburban hot spots where fighting between Moslems and Christians killed nine persons Tuesday.

Mediator says he can end Moluccan holdout

A key mediator said Wednesday he could convince seven South Moluccans holding 25 hostages in the Indonesian consulate in Amsterdam to surrender if the Dutch government agreed to discuss their political demands. "The authorities want me to go to the consulate with a line of approach they and their psychologists have worked out," Rev. Semol Metiary told reporters. "However, I insist on doing it my own way and I am sure the siege will end peacefully on the basis of that one gesture from the government."

Slayton will head space shuttle tests

• Astronaut Donald "Deke" Slayton, a pilot on July's U.S.-Soviet joint spaceflight, will direct testing of the space shuttle rocket plane, America's next manned space program. A heart irregularity grounded him until doctors okayed his historic international mission.

REGINA KUTA sings Polish Christmas carols as part of the celebration of St. Nicholas Day at the Emily Plater Polish School. The school emphasizes Polish culture, history and geography as well as teaching the Polish language. Two Scout troops also are being organized.

'Dzien dobri' — more than good morning

by LYNN ASINOF

Wladyslawa Lisiecka still drives into Chicago to buy Polish food, but she has stopped driving her youngsters into the city to learn the Polish language.

The reason? The children attend the Emily Plater Polish School, which is in session for 2½ hours on Saturdays at St. Emily's School, 1400 E. Central Rd., Mount Prospect.

The school, now in its second year, was formed by a group of parents in the Northwest suburbs who wanted their children to learn about their Polish heritage. When it opened in November 1974, the school had about 50 children. Enrollment now includes 106 children and 12 adults.

"THE MAIN THING is to teach the language, but also some history customs and geography," said Mrs. Lisiecka, who also is president of the school's board of directors.

A native-born Pole, Mrs. Lisiecka said it is important to her that her children speak Polish well. In fact she sent her sons to Poland for three months last summer "to learn a good Polish accent."

Polish language and culture used to be taught to children in the old Chicago neighborhoods because parochial schools were geared to ethnic groups, said Jeffery Roberts, another member of the board of directors.

AS NEIGHBORHOODS changed — more and more Polish families moved to the suburbs. The Polish schools and associations for the most part, however, have stayed in the city, forcing suburbanites to drive into Chicago for contact with Polish culture.

Roberts said the school was developed to fill a void in the area's growing Polish community. "It's the first and only Polish school existing in the Northwest suburbs," he said.

The school thus far has attracted first and second generation Polish Americans as well as children of mixed marriages. Roberts said he was surprised to find that adults who have mixed marriages are interested in learning their spouse's language.

The introduction to Polish culture extends beyond the classroom, where reading, writing and the spoken language are taught. One Polish-speaking Girl Scout troop already has been established and in January a Cub Scout troop will begin.

"THEY HAVE TO speak Polish, and the meeting will only be in Polish," Mrs. Lisiecka said.

Holidays also are used to teach the youngsters Polish traditions. St. Nicholas Day was celebrated Dec. 6 when the Polish equivalent of Santa Claus showed up to give good children sweets and candies.

An "oplatek," a ceremony which includes the sharing of a special Christmas wafer, is scheduled for Jan. 18 and will include a Christmas tree and performances by the children in Polish costume.

Still in its infancy, the school is a labor of love. Parents volunteer their time to provide supervision for the students, and teachers are paid very small salaries.

"This is social work because we can't afford to pay them very much," Mrs. Lisiecka said.

With tuition rates of $40 for one child and $50 for two or more children, the school is just about breaking even. But Mrs. Lisiecka said the real reward comes from hearing the children greet people with a properly pronounced "dzien dobri" — good morning.

Hersey, Prospect drama groups

Schools to perform at festival

Prospect and Hersey high schools are among five Illinois schools selected to participate in the Illinois High School Theater Festival next month.

Prospect High School's play, "Our Town," and Hersey High School's performance of "U.S.A." were selected by judges to be part of the theater festival Jan. 8-11 at the Krannert Center for the Performing Arts on the University of Illinois campus in Champaign.

The festival is jointly sponsored by the Illinois Office of Education, The Illinois Theater Assn. and the University of Illinois.

THE PROSPECT and Hersey productions were chosen from about 30 to 40 Illinois high school drama entries. Students will visit the U. of I. campus to participate in the festival.

Prospect's "Our Town," written by Thornton Wilder, was performed at the school this fall under the direction of Patricia Lewkowicz. Assistant director was Jim Haneert, and technical director, Beth Balfer.

Tom Larson played the stage manager, Miles Marek portrayed George Gibbs and Colette Kilroy was Emily Webb. Other members of the cast were Steve Bortko as Dr. Gibbs, Sue Gorence as Mrs. Gibbs, Craig Boarini as Mr. Webb and Jan Wilmarth as Mrs. Webb.

Hersey's "U.S.A." was performed at the school Dec. 5 and 6. The play by John Dos Passos and Paul Shrye is a dramatization of the trilogy of novels by the same title. It includes use of newspaper headlines, song titles, biographical sketches and characters to capture American history from 1900 to 1930.

THE PRODUCTION incorporates the use of multiple slide projectors to capture the many divergent elements of early 20th Century America. More than 500 original photographs were used in the presentation.

Cast members sharing the honors are Scott Koenig, Laura Paa, Cameron Pfiffner, Veronica Pionke, Scott Rothermel and Jill Thomas. Also working on the production were crew members Steve Hefferman, Bob Novak, David Rehr, David Flavin and Don Collignon. The production was directed by Jerry M. Lowe assisted by Brian Rehr.

Residents likely to pay more for garbage pickups

Miller also questioned whether the increased fuel prices should not have been foreseen by Laseke.

"I don't buy the fact that these increases were not expected," Bettman said.

Laseke's requests were supported by four trustees: Richard Durava, Frank Palmatier, David Griffin and O. V. Anderson.

"WE HAVE TO BE pragmatic and look at who we're dealing with," Durava said. "We are the only ones he (Laseke) does business with.

"There were provisions in the contract for extraordinary cost increases, and the administration has been able to substantiate to the penny the need for these increases," Durava added.

Mrs. Harms again objected, saying, "This leaves us open to possible 'over and above' increases again next year."

The finance committee will discuss Laseke's requests again Dec. 29 in order to draft another recommendation for the village board.

The next garbage bills are scheduled to be sent out at the end of January, according to Charlton. He predicted that Laseke would hold off on the next billing until the situation was resolved.

Dist. 59 hires agency for unit-school update

The Illinois School Consulting Service has been hired by the Elk Grove Township Dist. 59 Board of Education to update a unit-school district study done by the same firm in 1973.

The board this week approved the study, which will cost the district $8,500, by a 5-to-2 vote. Board members Lynne Helvie and Paul Kucharski voted against the expenditure saying the district cannot afford it at this time because of a projected $1.5 million deficit this year.

The consultants conducted the earlier study at a cost of $20,000. At that time, the Dist. 59 unit-district committee rejected the idea of a unit district but recommended it be researched again at a later date.

A UNIT DISTRICT would have one administration and school board governing elementary and high schools. Currently Dist. 59 is one of seven elementary districts in the High School Dist. 214 area.

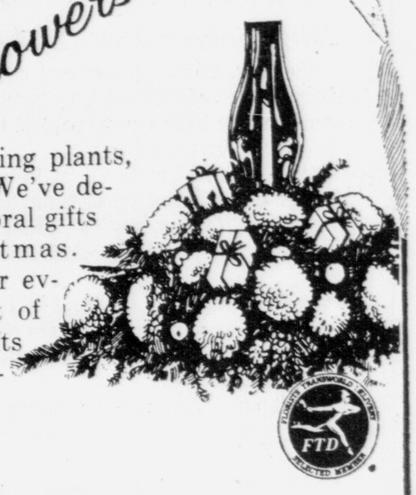

The idea of a unit district study was brought up during the summer by the Elk Grove Assn. of Industry and Commerce. The businessmen's group reviewed the 1973 study and is supporting further investigation of a unit district for the Dist. 59 area.

"I have some difficulty determining what the board's responsibility should be," said Kucharski. "Should this movement be coming from the community? I just can't justify the expenditure."

Board member Erwin Pocklacki said he voted to hire the consultants with "reservations." He also questioned whether the money was available.

Additional federal funds have been made available to Arlington Heights for the hiring of another employe under the U.S. Comprehensive Employment and Training Act.

Gregory Ford, village personnel director, said the new employe will be assigned as a page to the Arlington Heights Memorial Library. The employe will receive $2.34 an hour for the full-time job.

The position is unfilled, and Ford said applications are being taken by the village.

Under terms of the federal grant, preference is given to residents of the village who have been unemployed for 30 days. Preference is also given to heads of households, veterans or members of minority ethnic groups.

To date the village has hired 14 persons under the act. Two have been assigned to the Arlington Heights Park District and one to the library, Ford said, as part of an on-going program of inter-governmental cooperation.

Persons interested in the new position can contact the personnel department at the Municipal Building, 33 S. Arlington Heights Rd.

Federal mail fraud, tax charges

5 indicted in county funds plot

by STEVE BROWN

A former Cook County official and four bank executives were indicted Wednesday on federal mail fraud and tax charges stemming from a kickback scheme involving the deposit of county funds in noninterest bearing accounts.

U.S. Atty. Samuel Skinner said the indictments were the first results of a one-year investigation into reports county officials have received payoffs from bankers for depositing government money in noninterest bearing accounts.

Named in the indictments were: Walter A. Conrad, 70, of Chicago, a top aide to former County Treasurer Bernard Korzen; Donald O'Toole, 66, of Frankfort, chairman of the board of the Standard Bank and Trust Co. and the Pullman Bank and Trust Co.; Justin O'Toole, 58, of Chicago, former president of the Standard Bank; Edward Gannon, 68, an attorney who represented the banks; and Royal Cox, 40, of Glenview.

CONRAD WAS charged with four counts of mail fraud; Donald O'Toole with two counts of preparing false income tax returns; Justin O'Toole with one count of making false income tax returns, and Gannon and Cox with making a false partnership return.

The indictments charge Conrad deposited $2.2 million in the two banks in noninterest accounts and received a one per cent kickback from the bankers. The deposits were made for a one-year period in 1970.

Skinner refused to comment on how much Conrad got in the scheme, but the payoff figure ranges between $20,000 and $100,000, sources close to the investigation said.

The sources also indicated that Korzen, who left office in 1974, may be the next target in the investigation. Skinner declined to comment on Korzen's role but it was learned that some action might occur in January.

ALL THE BANKERS involved were officials of Financial Management Associates, presently the Heritage Bank Corporation.

The investigation is part of a federal probe into the deposit of $10 million in county funds that was placed in noninterest bearing accounts.

Skinner said he has been told banks could make between $150 and $200 per day on just $1 million deposited in a non-interest account.

He credited the Better Government Assn. with developing the initial information on the investigation.

COUNTY OFFICIALS have denied any impropriety in the procedure, although county funds are placed in interest-bearing accounts.

State's Atty. Bernard Carey cleared four county officials of any wrongdoing because they owned stock in banks which held county money. One of those cleared in that investigation was former County Comr. Floyd Fulle of Des Plaines who was sentenced to five years in prison last week after being convicted on perjury, extortion and tax evasion charges.

Skinner noted charges involving the banks in no way question the stability of the banks nor should depositors be concerned about their accounts.

Howlett defends use of associate's study firm

Secretary of State Michael Howlett Wednesday defended his use of a political associate's consulting firm in a $48,000 study of the feasibility of multi-year license plates for Illinois.

Howlett responded to a story in the Alton Telegraph which said Illinois Planning Group Ltd. of Elmhurst had apparently done little work for $156,000 in contracts the firm received from Howlett's office the past two years.

The firm's president, Edward T. McKiernan, is one of four directors of the People for Howlett Campaign Committee. Howlett recently announced his candidacy for the Democratic nomination for governor.

Howlett said, "There is no legal or moral reason why anyone who has transacted business with the state of Illinois should not be free to support the political candidate of his choice."

Ronald Fox, the firm's secretary, said McKiernan went to grammar school with Howlett. He also said the firm did work for Howlett when he was state auditor. He said the firm does not do business with any other state agency.

Howlett has signed five contracts totalling $203,400 with the firm since 1974, the newspaper said. The latest contract calls for a maximum of $46,900 for driver's license studies through next June.

The indictment charged that Conrad received a kickback equal to 1 per cent of the deposits for leaving the money in noninterest bearing accounts for about a year.

Also named in the indictment were: Donald O'Toole, 66, Frankfort, chairman of the board of both banks; Justin O'Toole, 58, Chicago, former president of Standard Bank, and Edward Gannon, 68, of Oak Lawn, an attorney charged with preparing a false 1971 income tax return for his law firm.

Illinois briefs

Boy dies riding rails

The body of a boy no more than 13 years old was found in Tennessee Wednesday huddled on an open flatbed car on a Chicago-to-Memphis freight train. Authorities said he apparently hopped the train in Chicago after school Tuesday and froze to death. "There was no evidence of foul play," said Lt. W. D. Schultz of the Memphis Police Department.

Illinois Central Gulf Railroad security agents discovered the body under a trailer on a piggyback flatcar after the train, which left Chicago at 6:15 p.m. Tuesday, arrived here at 9:05 a.m. Schultz said the unidentified victim had a book stamped Arna Bontemps School, Chicago.

Medicaid decision nears

A spokesman for the Department of Health, Education and Welfare said Wednesday HEW will decide within a month whether a freeze in Illinois medicaid payments to hospitals violates federal guidelines.

Clyde Downing, acting regional director for the office of HEW which handles welfare, said he expects to get details of the freeze plan from the Illinois Department of Public Aid by Friday or Saturday, and a decision should be made in about three weeks.

Downing said Public Aid Director James Trainor telephoned him Wednesday to assure him details of the state plan were en route. HEW sent letters to Trainor on Nov. 7 and Dec. 2 questioning the freeze and set a deadline of Dec. 19 for an answer.

The Public Aid Department this fall froze all medicaid payments it makes to hospitals at the rates in effect on Oct. 6. The hospitals receive medicaid funds in return for treating welfare patients.

Ex-treasurer indicted

A federal grand jury Wednesday indicted former Cook County Treasurer Walter A. Conrad on charges of mail fraud for allegedly taking kickbacks on county money he depositied in bank accounts that paid no interest.

Three other men also were charged in the scheme.

U.S. Attorney Samuel Skinner told a news conference the indictments stemmed from a year-long investigation of the county treasurer's office.

He said Conrad, 70, who retired from the treasurer's office last year, allegedly received a kickback for depositing $1.2 million in county funds in the Standard Bank and Trust Co. and $1 million in county funds in the Pullman Bank and Trust Co. in 1970.

Probe of MSD extends to Europe

A team of Internal Revenue Service agents has been sent to Europe as part of a massive federal investigation of an alleged payoff scheme involving the Metropolitan Sanitary District.

U.S. Atty. Samuel Skinner shed some light Tuesday on the scope of the investigation which reportedly involves payoffs from a barge company to MSD officials and could involve kickbacks totaling $1.5 million.

Skinner called the probe "the largest investigation undertaken by this office since the Kerner investigation."

HE DID NOT offer details of what the grand jury has uncovered, but said the panel has been meeting weekly.

The investigation may not be concluded until next spring, Skinner said. He said that an investigation of this magnitude requires a very thorough examination of all details.

Sources close to the investigation said the government is trying to determine if MSD officials accepted payoffs in connection with the awarding of contracts to ship sludge, a byproduct of treated sewage used for fertilizer, to Fulton County by barge. Fulton County is about 200 miles south of Chicago.

The investigation reportedly centers around several contracts, which were awarded with no competitive bidding between the MSD and a Louisiana barge company.

AT LEAST one railroad has charged it could transport the sludge from Chicago to Fulton County cheaper than the barge operation.

The original MSD contract, which was negotiated in 1971 for $17.9 million, was renegotiated in 1973 for $25 million, again reportedly without bids.

Skinner said he has assigned two assistant U.S. attorneys to the case and that a team of IRS agents is working in Europe. He refused to state what the agents were checking, but sources said the agents are examining a number of Swiss bank accounts in an effort to determine if payments to the MSD officials were funneled into secret accounts.

High school drop-out rate declines in area

by PAM BIGFORD

The number of students who drop out of high school is on the rise in suburban Cook County, but the drop-out rate has been steadily declining in the Northwest suburbs.

Richard J. Martwick, Cook County schools superintendent, reported that the number of suburban students who dropped out of high school in 1974-75 has risen 13 per cent over the 1973-74 school year.

But high school districts in the Northwest suburbs reported their drop-out rates declined or remained the same over the same time period.

SCHOOL OFFICIALS in this area attributed the declining drop-out rate to the availability of alternative education programs which allow the potential drop-out to pursue his high school diploma in ways other than the standard high school routine.

In High School Dist. 211, which serves Palatine and Schaumburg townships, 262 students, or 2.6 of the student population, dropped out in 1974-75 compared to 332, or 3.6 per cent, in 1973-74.

Assistant Supt. Gerald Chapman said the district provides several alternate education programs for students who might drop out of the regular high school program. More than 225 students are now taking advantage of these programs, he said.

"Our major program is a night school that students can attend if they are dissatisfied with the regular program or for financial reasons have to have a full-time job during the day," Chapman said.

OTHER DIST. 211 programs include a night school for pregnant students; individualized instruction in some high schools for students who temporarily have problems learning in the regular classroom; and an off-campus program of individualized tutoring at The Bridge counseling agency in Palatine.

"We try to inform the students who say they want to drop out that there are different programs for them," Chapman said. "Many students who do drop out eventually return to either the day or night school."

An alternative called the "community resource program" is a major deterrent to high school dropouts in High School Dist. 214, which serves Wheeling and Elk Grove townships, said William Warner, administrative assistant.

The drop-out rate in Dist. 214 was 432 students, or 2.6 per cent, in 1974-75, a figure which Warner said was about the same in 1973-74.

IN THE COMMUNITY resource program, students can earn high school credit by working in the community in an occupation that interests them, Warner said. The program is different for every child, so some students might work fulltime for a month or a year while others may be working half a day and attending classes during the other half.

Warner said there also are a "great variety" of individual programs in each school to accommodate students' problems which might cause them to drop out.

In High School Dist. 207, which serves Maine Township, the drop-out rate has fallen from 2.7 per cent, or 322 students in 1973-74, to 2.3 per cent, or 272 students, in 1974-75.

School officials attribute the declining rate to their night school program and the emphasis currently placed on career education, which they say makes school more relevant to the students. Vocational education courses also have increased, which allow students to train for a career.

"WHENEVER WE make special arrangements with a student to secure the completion of his education, we consider that an alternative education program," said Merlin Schultz, coordinator of pupil services. He said one reason for the declining rate is that students are in some programs such as correspondence courses, which were not recognized as credited programs until recently.

In spite of the school districts' efforts, some students still do leave school without a diploma, most often citing "lack of interest" in their courses or financial problems as reasons for dropping out.

Martwick, in view of the rising number of dropouts in other suburban areas, called for the establishment of "solid alternative programs" of individualized instruction to help bring the numbers down.

The declining drop-out rate in the Northwest suburbs indicates that alternative education may keep many students in some type of school programs. But, said Warner, "School may not be the answer for everybody.

"We don't claim to be everything to everybody. We try to do the most we can for the greatest number. I think it's really something that we've been able to keep almost 98 per cent of the students in school," he said.

Shriver to enter delegate slates in state primary

by United Press International

R. Sargent Shriver announced Wednesday he will enter delegate slates in the Illinois March 16 primary election and "probably" will run in the state's Democratic presidential popularity contest.

Shriver told a news conference he talked with Mayor Richard J. Daley prior to making his announcement on Illinois and he said Daley told him, "I recommend that you come in."

Shriver said he did not ask for Daley's support and it wasn't offered.

He said he will run delegate slates "in all areas of the state where I have a reasonable chance of being successful," but will not decide whether to run slates in Cook County until he sees what Daley and other county leaders have in mind.

Although 11 men have announced their candidacies for the Democratic presidential nomination so far, Shriver said he does not think there will be a deadlock at the party's national convention next summer. He said he thinks a strong man will emerge before then from among those who already have announced.

"I hope to conduct myself in such a way and discuss national concerns in such a way that the people of Illinois will come to see me as being the most capable to be the next president," he said.

Shriver is the fourth Democrat to formally announce his intention to enter the Illinois presidential primary. The others are Sen. Henry Jackson of Washington, Alabama Goy. George Wallace and former Oklahoma Sen. Fred Harris.

Wall Street 'optimistic', observers say

Stock prices take upward turn

NEW YORK (UPI) — Prices moved slightly higher in moderate trading Wednesday on the New York Stock Exchange.

Some analysts said were it not for tax-loss selling, a yearend rally would be strongly under way. Many were impressed the market was able to advance in the face of uncertainty over next year's taxes and American Telephone & Telegraph's earnings.

Generally, observers were encouraged Wall Street was taking a more optimistic view of the economy. Their outlook was helped by Commerce Dept. reports the nation had a $1.58 billion third quarter basic payments surplus and that personal income rose 0.9 per cent in November. General Motors' announcement of higher production plans for 1976 also helped.

AS A RESULT, the Dow Jones industrial average, which fluctuated throughout the day, gained 1.97 points to 846.27. It climbed 7.71 points Tuesday. Standard & Poor's 500-stock index added 0.22 to 89.15 and the average price of an NYSE common share increased by eight cents.

Of the 1,882 issues crossing the tape, 803 advanced, 549 declined and 530 remained unchanged.

Volume slowed to 16,560,000 shares from 18,350,000 traded Tuesday, the heaviest turnover in nearly two weeks. The NYSE high-speed transaction tape ran two minutes late in the first hour.

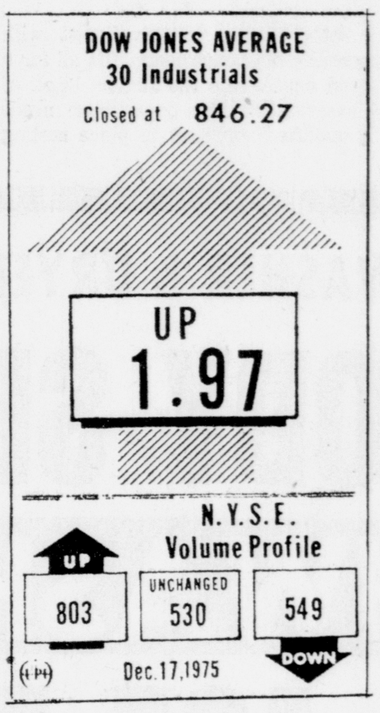

American Telephone & Telegraph's latest quarterly earnings report disappointed many investors. The company reported its latest net totaled $1.30 a share, compared with $1.32 a year ago. The stock, the most widely held in the nation, was the fifth most active on the Big Board, losing 3/8 to 50½ on 120,800 shares.

MERCK, THE Big Board volume leader, plunged 3-5/8 to 72¾ on 215,000 shares, including an opening block of 80,000 shares at 73¼. One analyst said the company had flat third quarter earnings because currency problems hurt the earnings of its British operations.

General Electric was the third most active issue, off 1-1/8 to 45¾ on 129,800 shares, and Utah International, fourth, lost ½ to 48¾ on 122,900 shares. GE officials said the proposed merger with Utah International would aid its world wide business and help hedge against inflation. The Justice Department is investigating the proposal, which was announced late Monday.

Franklin Mint was the second most active issue, off 5/8 to 25½ on 149,900 shares, including a block of 125,000 shares at 25.

Prices closed higher in moderate trading on the American Stock Exchange. The average price of an Amex share gained six cents. Volume totaled 2,000,000 shares, compared with 2,130,000 traded Tuesday.

$6 million loss reported by United Airlines

United Airlines Inc. has reported a net loss of $6.1 million on its flight operations for November.

The figure compares to a $5 million loss in November 1974.

The deficit does not reflect the current strike by airline mechanics which forced United to cancel its flights Dec. 6.

Edward E. Carlson, United chairman, said that revenues rose last month compared to a year ago, but were insufficient to offset rising costs.

Passenger miles for November rose almost 12 per cent over the same month last year, when the recession caused a sharp decline in air travel, Carlson said. But the average revenue per passenger mile was down 0.7 per cent from a year ago.

November operating revenues totaled $174.9 million, up 8 per cent from $161.9 million in the corresponding month last year. Operating expenses were $185.7 million, up 7.7 per cent from a year ago.

Higher prices for jet fuel and increases in wages and benefits represented 87.9 per cent of the rise in operating costs.

For the 11 months ended Nov. 30, consolidated net earnings from airline operations totaled $13 million, compared with net earnings of $86.3 million in the same period of 1974.

Saxon cuts copier charges 12 to 14%

Saxon Business Products Inc., which has a branch office at 1191 E. Higgins, Elk Grove Village, recently announced 12 to 14 per cent price reductions in monthly copier charges.

The reduced rates on office equipment rental charges will allow a customer making 10,000 to 15,000 copies a month to save $35 to $42 per month. Saxon Business Products is based in Miami Lakes, Fla.

Wards reports sales up 4% in November

Montgomery Ward recently reported sales for the five weeks ending Nov. 29 increased 4 per cent to a record $446,809,000 from $429,725,000 in the same period of 1974.

Sales for the 44 weeks ending Nov. 29 amounted to $3,072,008,000 compared to $2,993,228,000 the previous year. Sidney McKnight, president of the retailing subsidiary of Marcor, Inc., reported strong sales of home furnishings and apparel.

Study seeks state's last wilds

by LEA TONKIN

Natural areas in Illinois are remnants of a heritage that should be preserved for public benefit. That's the opinion of Tony Dean, director of the Illinois Dept. of Conservation.

Dean said a team of investigators, including students and professors in the University of Illinois architecture department, will start a three-year study of natural land and water areas throughout the state. Based on the information they gather, the state will launch conservation programs.

Illinois has little land that has been untouched by civilization, said Robert B. Riley, a U. of I. professor who heads the investigation. "It is especially important to identify these natural areas now before they vanish altogether," he said. Strips of original prairies exist in railway rights-of-way and in cemeteries, and undisturbed woodland survive.

"Bird watchers, nature lovers, extension advisers and others who have expert knowledge of the state may be able to help us find other areas that should be included in the study," Riley said. Initial investigations in McHenry, Jo Daviess, Fulton, Vermilion, St. Clair and Johnson counties will be followed by research in the remaining Illinois counties.

CLEAN-BURNING liquid and some gaseous fuels will be produced at the $237 million coal conversion plant slated for construction in St. Clair County, Illinois. According to Stanley Noss, president of the prime contractor, the Coalcon Co. of New York the goal gasification plant is the threshold of a $100 billion industry.

That's just for openers, Noss said in a Tuesday interview. Satellite companies could double or triple the figure.

Once the operators of the Illinois demonstration plant show how to convert coal to a clean-burning fuel and distribute the products profitably, American enterprise will do the rest, Noss said. Construction of the plant at New Athens, Ill., will start in early 1977.

WANTED: a conservationist with pole-climbing experience. It's all for a good cause, said the Illinois Dept. of Conservation. The department needs a qualified volunteer to place nesting platforms for the double-breasted cormorant on poles.

The state may lose its last nesting colony of the rare birds because the Carroll County trees in which they nest are endangered by the surrounding Mississippi River waters. The pole-climbing job will take no more than one day to complete, the department said. Volunteers can contact the department's Division of Wildlife Resources, 605 State Office Building, Springfield, Ill. 62706.

Earnings report required by SSA

Social Security recipients who earned more than $2,520 in 1975 must file an earnings report with the Social Security Administration by April 15.

Failure to report can result in the loss of one or more monthly benefits.

Persons 72 years or older during all of 1975 are not required to report.

Nonwork income, defined as the continuation of a salary with no services rendered, received after age 62 does not count as earnings for Social Security purposes. Nor do annuities, pensions, gifts, retirement pay or savings account interest.

Vacation pay, bonuses, commissions and fees are considered earnings.

Persons who do not receive an annual income report form by the end of February can pick one up at a Social Security office. There are two offices in the Northwest suburbs at 770 Lee St., Des Plaines, and 120 W. Eastman St., Arlington Heights.

'Dear Santa: Don't wrap your gifts'

Holiday travelers leaving Chicago's O'Hare Airport with an armload of Christmas presents should not wrap them until reaching final destinations.

The Federal Aviation Administration's anti-hijacking inspection program requires a physical or electronic search of all passengers on commercial aircraft plus any carry-on luggage, including Christmas presents.

O'Hare and most other major airports across the country use X-ray equipment for the screening, but travelers passing through smaller airports may find they will be forced to unwrap packages individually to be searched.

Neal Callahan, FAA Great Lakes region public affairs officer, said passengers who insist on carrying wrapped presents will just have to put up with the extra bother.

"We will not relax our national anti-hijacking regulations for Christmas," Callahan said. "Since the inception of the program, there have been no successful airline hijackings in the U. S., and this is more important than anything else."

He suggested that those who feel it necessary to travel with wrapped packages pack them in a large carton, such as those provided by the airlines, and check the carton with other luggage.

Of course, if you want to keep your money earning, there's a 10-year extension privilege beyond maturity.

We'd appreciate it if you'd help us clear up the confusion. Next time somebody tells you it takes 10 years for a Savings Bond to mature, smile indulgently. And then show him this ad.

Now E Bonds pay 6% interest when held to maturity of 5 years (4½% the first year). Lost, stolen or destroyed Bonds can be replaced if records are provided. When needed, Bonds can be cashed at your bank. Interest is not subject to state or local income taxes, and federal tax may be deferred until redemption.

The way we see it

Agent Roten's work lauded

In recent months, the Federal Bureau of Investigation has been rapped for spying on citizens and gathering secret files for personal use by the late Director J. Edgar Hoover.

Such activities deserve to be condemned. At the same time, however, it should be recognized that such activities occupied only a small portion of the bureau's work, and the day-in, day-out work of enforcing laws and upholding justice continued apace.

The majority of FBI agents are not involved in such actions and are working for our system of government, not against it. They are perhaps the most professional and highly trained policemen in the world, with few major federal crimes eluding solution by the bureau's agents.

In the long run, FBI agents always seem to get the job done. We are particularly reminded of this by the indictment last week of 20 persons who worked as baggage handlers at O'Hare Airport and have been accused of massive thefts of property from baggage.

The O'Hare case was developed and headed by one of those agents who worked diligently, and professionally behind the scenes for many months . . . Ira Lynn Roten.

Roten, ironically, died only a few days before the indictments were returned when his car slid off the road in Elk Grove Township while he was en route to his Schaumburg home.

Roten, like so many FBI agents, only had one thing on his mind when doing his job — justice.

With spectacular spying cases drawing most of the attention, we tend to forget the number of kidnappings, bank robberies, extortion plots and other major crimes that are foiled daily by FBI agents. Some of them die in the line of duty before they can see the fruits of their labor.

There still may be agents spying on politicians and private citizens in this country; we've seen enough abuse of power to take nothing for granted. But for the bulk of FBI agents, like Ira Lynn Roten, we should all be grateful.

Here's what's good about the FBI!!

All-star library wins well-deserved praise

We commend the Rolling Meadows Library for being selected an All-Star Library by the Illinois Library Assn.

The award, given annually to Illinois libraries which conform to Illinois Library Assn. standards, was presented to Rolling Meadows officials at the state convention this week in Chicago. Rolling Meadows' was one of three libraries to be named this year.

Commenting on the award, Librarian Judith Drescher said, "It doesn't necessarily mean we've accomplished everything we've attempted, but it means we worked harder." Indeed, Mrs. Drescher and the library staff have worked hard to improve library services for the people of Rolling Meadows.

The library has extended services to persons formerly not using the library, including the handicapped. Programs have been set up in local schools, day care centers and homes for the retarded.

Remodeling has provided more seats for library patrons, and a new tape cassette and movie collection service is available.

The residents of Rolling Meadows today are receiving excellent library service, and we look for continued improvement as the city grows and more funds become available.

The Rolling Meadows Library was formed in 1960 and has made significant improvements despite limited funding. It was not so long ago that the library was in a renovated house at Meadow Drive and Martin Lane until a permanent library was built.

We are particularly pleased that this small library has been recognized for its achievements.

Orchard village article helped

The board of directors, staff and citizens of Orchard Village want you to accept our grateful thanks and appreciation for your efforts in bringing Orchard Village and its story and needs to the public's attention.

As you know, Orchard Village is a community-living facility, and our program is designed toward mainstreaming our residents into the community. Part of our program goes toward educating, training and habilitation of mentally retarded citizens.

Since the concept of community living facilities is a reality, Orchard Village stands as a model in the State of Illinois, Niles and Maine townships can be very proud. We are hopeful that satellites of Orchard Village can be established in the future to offer help and hope to mentally and physically handicapped citizens.

The response from your special efforts have been most effective, I hope you can continue.

We would like to extend an invitation to you and the public so they can see, first-hand, what is being accomplished for our mentally retarded citizens at Orchard Village.

Chimes add joy to holiday season

If you happened to be shoveling snow, Christmas shopping or passing through the village, you may have had the opportunity to share in the excitement of hearing the beautiful Schulmerich chimes drifting out across the village. They were first programmed to be played on Thanksgiving Day at the Wheeling Village Hall. After a year of work by the Wheeling Beautification Committee and a very warm, generous response from businesses, civic organizations and residents, it has become a dream realized.

Since we want to increase our musical library and eventually purchase remote units to extend to all parts of the village, we are still working to raise funds and add donors to the Bicentennial memorial plaque. It will be a lasting historical tribute to our nation's birthday and will be cast sometime in 1976. It was our contention not only to commemorate the Bicentennial but to pay tribute to the memory of our loved ones and first families who were part of the history of this village. Eventually the emergency warning system will be integrated into our Civil Defense program.

SINCE CHRISTMAS is a time for sharing, you may want to give a special consideration to becoming a donor. Not only would you share in this beautiful historical event but you would be giving a gift that would be shared by the members of your family as well as all who live and work in the village this Christmas and the years to come.

The Westminster Chimes chime the hour and half hour from 9 a.m. to 9 p.m. and play musical selections at noon, 6 p.m. and 6:45 and 7:45 during the holiday season daily. There is a concert each Sunday at 3 p.m. for approximately 40 minutes.

We would like to take this opportunity to thank all of those who have taken part in making the carillon a reality and wish the people of Wheeling a very happy holiday season.

Holiday thoughts

An aged old woman stares blankly out a window, daydreaming of fond Christmas memories of family gatherings long since past. Her mailbox hungers for a lone Christmas card and a small aluminum tree lies naked in a dark corner. A worn doormat with the faint word "Welcome" on it lies unused by the front door. Loneliness is her only visitor as the cold winter breezes whistle outside her door.

This could describe someone you know, maybe someone close to you. Brighten up their Christmas this year with a visit, phone call or at least a cheery Christmas card. Remember, Christmas is a time of love and giving, but it is also a time of loneliness and sorrow for those without a friend.

Mike Nejman
Schaumburg

How empty our Christmases would be if we were to receive no cards — that is why we send to others. There is no obligation for a person to send anyone a card. On the other hand, what other gift can you get for so little (including the 10-cent stamp)? The postage is the same no matter what the size or cost of the card; and if you take the time you can even include a note or letter. What a bargain, really!

As for sending Christmas cards to business acquaintances, did you ever think maybe it is just a small way of saying "thank you" to someone, not asking for business?

Please don't start a movement to take away my "freedom of choice" in that area now. And so, "Merry Christmas to All."

AMERICAN REVOLUTION BICENTENNIAL 1776-1976

Dateline 1775

(by United Press International)

SPITHEAD, England, Dec. 18 — Commodore Sir Peter Parker notified the admiralty that after weeks of delay a fleet was ready to sail in two days which would carry Lord Cornwallis and fresh British troops to the Cape Fear River area of North Carolina.

'Doesn't make sense to close school'

It just doesn't make any sense to close Sunset Park School, which has the highest scholastic rating of any public school in Mount Prospect Dist. 57. It also is the smallest school in Dist. 57, which entitles us (parents) a closer relationship with the faculty and the students. The students are given special attention, more so than you will find in the other schools. The learning program at Sunset is working fantastically well, no trouble at all. The convenience of my child to ride her bike during the summer will not be so at Westbrook. She cannot walk to Westbrook because there is no way, unless you want to let her walk on Busse Road or cut across the creek and golf course, which means busing or driving four times a day.

If she does get bused (we don't know yet if we are entitled to it) she leaves a half hour earlier (8:30) and won't home until 4 p.m. This is a long day for any child.

DOES IT HAVE to be in life that everything that is good is taken away by people who just think of money? How much it will cost to keep Sunset open. Also, the census taken showed Sunset has not dropped in enrollment but is holding its own, but the other two schools have dropped considerably (Lions and Westbrook).

To the people who want Sunset closed: What will happen if St. Raymond School closes? (There has been talk.) Will you open Sunset again?

The housing project being built in Lions Park area — where do these children go to school? Lions will be overcrowded. Will Sunset be open again?

IT WILL COST MONEY to heat the Sunset building and for a custodian. Have they found anyone to rent the building? (Or will it be an eyesore and vacant?)

One thing before I close this letter. With Sunset School and Gregory School closed, why do we need one superintendent and two assistant superintendents? We should just be able to get along with one. After all, there aren't enough schools to be superintending.

Jaycees: Libit dinner successful

The Buffalo Grove Jaycees and Jaycettes would like to thank the many people who came to our Bobby Libit benefit spaghetti dinner on Nov. 30. Without the support of the community, we could not have had the success we did.

We would also like to thank the many merchants and businesses, both in and outside of Buffalo Grove, who donated so many items that were used for the dinner.

Finally, we would like to offer a special thanks to The Herald for the support and coverage they gave the event. Betty Lee did a fine job of providing news coverage and Mike Seeling's photos of the event were classics.

Once again, thanks to all from the Buffalo Grove Jaycees and Jaycettes.

Backs Tosto on station

Thank you for your article stating Trustee Mike Tosto's viewpoints on the proposed fourth fire station in Elk Grove. It was most enjoyable to read the opinions of a qualified man who is working in the best interest of all the village residents.

After the past few weeks of Trustee Edward Kenna's opposition to the fire station, the additional paramedics and firemen and the Biesterfield I-90 exit, I was beginning to think the other trustees gave up trying to get anything done. Mr. Kenna's final historical quotation of, "I really don't give a damn if people get upset," is pretty strong for a man working in the interest of the community.

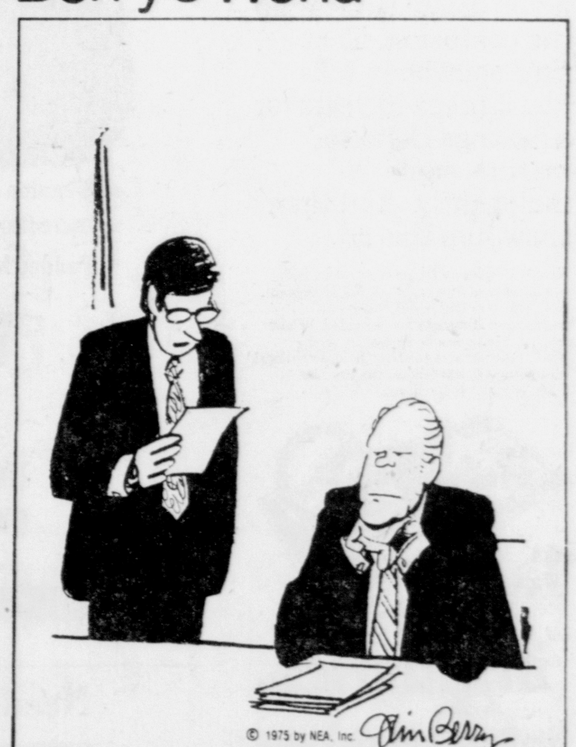

For a person who has criticized Mike Smith's efforts in trying to accomplish improvements in the behalf of unhappy homeowners, Mr. Kenna does not exactly have "room" to question another's motives. Mr. Smith is trying; what's Mr. Kenna doing?

IN OPPOSING the new fire station and additional manpower, Mr Kenna himself does not lack these benefits since he does not live in the 5½ minute response zone. Nice to live around the corner from the station.

Mr. Kenna, your power has gone to your head. You have lost the ability to have an open mind and comprehend the other possible alternatives to the issues. You have lost communication with the people you represent. If I may suggest, sir, open your mouth less often and open your mind and ears to what is around you. People do care what's happening, and it's time you do too.

Christmas—we endure it and love it

Education today

by Dorothy Oliver

Some thoughts during the holiday season:

Wednesday afternoon I was sitting in the gymnasium of my 8-year-old's elementary school, sitting through my fourth holiday program this year and reaffirming my conclusion that I was listening to sounds only a mother could love.

As the red-nosed first graders belted out a rendition of "Rudolph . . . ," and a 5-year-old Santa Claus paraded before his classmates, and two little boys alternated between singing together and shoving each other and the proud little towhead holding up a big green wreath found himself without a free hand to cover his yawn — a "mother's lump" formed in my throat.

MONDAY NIGHT I sat at my older son's junior high school concert marveling at how they had grown (up and out) since those innocent days in grade school. The beginnings of talent began to show through but that painful junior high syndrome known as awkwardness was everpresent — particularly with the boys who had a tough time looking cool while singing in the chorus.

I consider myself a veteran of these programs and have established a tradition for dealing with them. After the program's over and the kids are long in bed I drag out my old high school Christmas albums, sit cross-legged on the floor and let loose with those tears I've been saving all day.

Then I go hang up a string of lights.

One of the age old problems of this season is trying to decide what to buy teacher for Christmas.

One of my best friends is a former teacher and we spent an hour this week talking about gift guidelines. She still has a carton filled with assorted bottles of perfume, cologne, sachet, bubble bath and fancy soaps that accumulated during her five years in the classroom. And she can now smile about the can of deodorant one student presented her with.

Her favorites sounded so good I thought I'd pass them along:

- A box of homemade jams and preserves from one of those kids with a clever mother that cans things.
- A macramed plant holder, complete with plant.
- A cookie tin filled with fresh baked cookies.
- A bottle of wine.
- A box of thank you notes which she used to thank her students for the soaps, colognes, perfumes, etc.

A bit of controversy hit Wheeling-Buffalo Grove Dist. 21 last week when parents called and complained about religious music being used in holiday programs.

The controversy wells up annually not only in Dist. 21 but in many of our districts where there are people from various backgrounds.

The thought struck me as I watched the aforementioned concerts that my son is not going to turn Jewish because he sang the song "Hanukkah" and his skin will not darken because of a verse of "White Christmas" was done in Spanish. And he just might benefit from learning about other beliefs and customs.

I sincerely doubt that the strong moral, ethical or religious beliefs taught in the home, church or temple are the least affected by the art or music performed in school.

And I wonder how many of the parents who chose to complain talked with their children to see if they were offended.

Whatever you are celebrating — I hope it is happy.

Northwest Airlines denies sick-in rumor

Travelers with reservations on Northwest Airlines can rest easy — at least for now.

Airline officials Wednesday strongly denied widely published reports that cabin attendants were threatening a "sick-in" during Christmas week to protest slow progress in contract talks with the company.

Union leaders also disavowed an anonymous letter threatening the work stoppage that was delivered to news media in Minneapolis, Minn., Northwest Airlines' headquarters.

"Nothing can be further from the truth," a Northwest Airlines spokesman said. "There will be no disruption of service during the holidays."

Cabin attendants will be on duty, he added.

News of the threatening "sick-in" was widely disseminated because of the strikes that have shut down National and United airlines, the spokesman speculated.

In a separate action, the Civil Aeronautics Board Wednesday gave Pan American World Airways emergency authority to help ease the Christmas travel crunch by carrying passengers between San Francisco and New York.

Pan Am will be able to carry about 200 persons a day in each direction.

The CAB took the action because the United strike has forced up to 1,000 travelers a day to find other carriers at a time when empty seats are extremely scarce.

Walker parades his teammates for state office

by STEVE BROWN

Gov. Daniel Walker flew around Illinois Wednesday with his team of Democratic candidates for state office, explaining they were running because they wanted to, not because some political boss had ordered it.

During a press conference in his Chicago campaign headquarters, Walker introduced:

- Joan Alter, 38, Chicago, a Metropolitan Sanitary District trustee who is running for lieutenant governor;
- State Sen. Vince Demuzio, D-Carlingville, 34, who is running for secretary of state;
- Ronald Stackler, 38, Leland Grove, head of the Illinois Dept. of Registration and Education, who is running for attorney general;
- Roland Burris, 38, Chicago, head of the Illinois Dept. of General Services, who is running for comptroller.

WALKER DISPUTED the charge he and top aides handpicked the candidates and that the process was no different than Mayor Richard J. Daley's slatemaking process, which repeatedly has been blasted by Walker.

"There is a big difference. Each of these people decided on their own to run and for what office to seek."

Walker charged Daley ordered:

- Sec. of State Michael Howlett to run for governor rather than seek another term in his present post;
- Lt. Gov. Neil Hartigan to seek another term in that office rather than run for secretary of state as he had announced;
- State Treasurer Alan Dixon to give up his gubernatorial campaign and run for secretary of state;
- Michael Bakalis, former superintendent of public instruction, to run for comptroller rather than lieutenant governor;
- State Senate Pres. Cecil Partee, D-Chicago, who also wanted to run for lieutenant governor, to accept slating for attorney general.

WALKER SAID he encouraged all of the independents to run for office. He added he will provide as much support as possible during the campaign.

All of the candidates indicated they would support all Democrats who win in the March primary, but Walker added he expected his team would be the winners.

Alter said she did not regret her appearance before the Democratic State Central Committee slatemating session.

"You have to test the system, but the system here has proven to be a farce," she said.

Burris noted he is not a newcomer to the campaign, as he has been called recently. Burris said he announced his candidacy for comptroller on Sept. 25.

"IT IS AN INSULT to the people of this state that an educator is campaigning to be the state's chief fiscal officer," Burris said, adding he is better qualified to be comptroller than Bakalis, who is a college professor.

Walker said after the press conference that he is considered the underdog in the race, a position he likes, but disagreed with Demuzio's observation that he had only a 50-50 chance of being reelected.

"I think the odds are a little better than that," Walker said.

The group held Tuesday press conferences in Springfield, Rock Island, Rockford and Peoria.

Veeck names Richards to pilot Sox

PAUL RICHARDS
Hello . . .

Paul Richards was named manager of the Chicago White Sox Wednesday by new owner Bill Veeck.

Veeck said he hoped former manager Chuck Tanner would stay with the club in some capacity.

It will be the second tour for Richards as manager of the Sox, the same job he held from 1951 midway through the 1954 season, when he gave way to Marty Marion.

Richards, 67, has also served as general manager, last with the Atlanta Braves. His last managerial job was with Baltimore in 1965.

"I haven't had the opportunity to know or associate with Chuck Tanner and I feel we have to go with people I know," Veeck said, "So I have prevailed upon Paul Richards to manage for the coming year.

"I spent three hours today trying to convince Chuck Tanner we want him desperately in our organization. This is not a way to shuffle him off to the underbrush. I have checked extremely carefully and I have a splendid report on Chuck, but I'll feel more comfortable going with Paul.

"I asked Chuck to stay in whatever capacity he chooses, so we do not lose his services in the future. Chuck assured me he would give it considerable thought and give us an answer in the future."

Tanner has managed the White Sox for five seasons and his contract has three more years to run. It also contains a clause calling for the White Sox to pay him annually for some years after he leaves the club.

"Richards in my opinion is the finest manager available," Veeck said. "He has innate ability and he's close to the game, and for a club such as ours that doesn't figure to win the world championship, he's the best I've ever seen in action. He's as skillfull as anyone I know."

Tanner, who attended Veeck's press conference along with Richards, said he understood "What Bill has done. If I owned the club I think I would want to do the same thing.

"Richards is No. 1, he's the No. 1 man and that's been proven in the past by his record."

Richards, whose White Sox teams never finished out of the first division, said he tried to talk Veeck into keeping Tanner. But he added "I have known for a long time that Veeck is ambitious to have me manage for him. I don't know why.

"Chuck has been terrific.

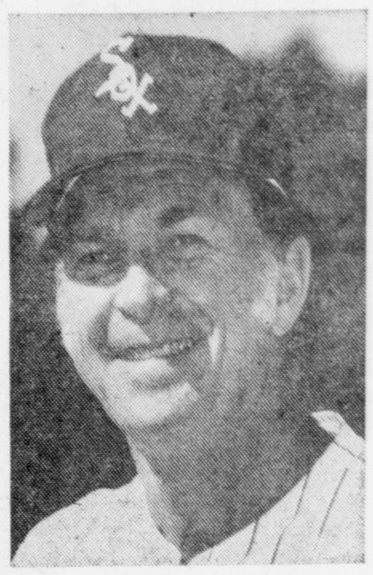

"Our biggest problem is around the edges, and pitching. If we can get a starting pitcher and four or five young kids to come through, we can do miracles."

Veeck's switch came only one day after he signed the final papers to take over the White Sox from John Allyn.

Richards said he hoped to begin work immediately on obtaining a coaching staff.

He was a participant, he said, in the talks which preceded the six trades Veeck made in the first 54 hours after he received American League approval to buy the club.

Richards also is one of the investors in the Veeck Syndicate which bought the team.

Buffalo Grove, Hoffman vie in tossup

Gymnasts on display in 5 meets

by CHARLIE DICKINSON
Gymnastics Editor

If results run true to form in Mid-Suburban League gymnastics tonight, there should be no surprises as the haves in the conference square off with the have-nots in five dual meets.

Arlington will be at Schaumburg, Hersey at Conant, Hoffman Estates at Buffalo Grove, Palatine at Elk Grove and Rolling Meadows at Fremd.

The closest contest figures to be Dennis Mazur's Buffalo Grove Bison and the Hoffman Hawks of Willie Vrba.

The Hawks hit 89.92 in a dual meet Saturday with Rolling Meadows and Vrba is confident his team is in the 100-point class.

Slightly better showings by the Hawks' second and third men on side horse, high bar, p-bars and rings will put Hoffman near that level.

Danny Muenz

All-arounder Dave Stronz, Rick Lindow and Jim Wingate have been Vrba's best bets, hitting consistently in the mid-fives.

Buffalo Grove will be strengthened by the return of all-arounder Dewey Deal, who tore a shoulder tendon attempting a cross on the rings. Although not fully recovered, Deal will work two or three events for the Bison tonight.

"We're still young," Mazur said. "One night we'll hit all but two events and the next time out we'll hit those two but miss two others. If we put them all together we can score right up there."

Meadows, who will visit Fremd tonight, clicked for 131.10 against Hoffman.

"We finally looked pretty good," said Mustang coach Vic Avigliano. "We got some consistency on all the events even though we were missing Hirth."

Free ex specialist Chris Hirth was kept out of the action with the flu but Meadows still got 8-plus scores from Keith Liszewski (8.6, the best in the MSL last week) on high bar and Dave Bycroft on rings.

Fremd is much improved last season, hitting for 85.49 last week, with a brother act, Doug and Dave Smidl, working all-around.

Elk Grove may host Palatine with their best all-arounder, Gene Christnnsen, on the sidelines.

"Gene is still sick with the flu," said Elk Grove's Fred Gaines. "He missed school Tuesday and he's been trying to shake this thing for a week and a half."

Even without Christensen the Grens are still a formidable outfit. All-arounder Matt Damore hit a 7.27 against Arlington last week and 7.46 to win the AA title against Niles North and made the Honor Roll on p-bars (7.9).

Tom Balla also cracked the Honor Roll with an 8.2 showing on high bar and Tim Connelly made the list on side horse with an 8.3.

Prospect gave Hersey a run for the money last week before falling by less than three points, hitting 131.03. They came back with 133.37 to win a dual meet with Conant Saturday.

Dave Scheible threw an 8.6 against Hersey to lead the side horse men this week and then fashioned an 8.15 against Conant to take two of the three places on the Honor Roll.

Glen Wilke pulled a similar double on still rings by taking the first and third spots with scores of 8.4 and 8.25.

The Knights will be off tonight, though, pointing towards the Maine East Invitational Saturday.

Hersey will travel to Conant tonight without high bar specialist. Al Maul-

Revived Harper cagers hoping to wrong Wright

A win does wonders for a basketball team and Harper's 30-point shellacking of McHenry Saturday, besides putting the skids to a six game losing streak, has raised the spirits of the 2-7 Hawks.

Tonight at 8 p.m., on the St. Viator wood, the men of Roger Bechtold will be out to get after the Rams from Wright.

"I definitely think we can beat them," Bechtold said. "They're having their problems.

"They're a similar team to Lake County. They're physical and good jumpers. But I don't think Wright is very disciplined and we should be able to take advantage of that."

Harper is having some problems of its own. Starting guard Kevin Lavin is lost for four weeks and regular forward Jim Arden, the Hawks' best shooter, has had to make a move into the backcourt.

"That is hard for Jim to adjust to," Bechtold said. "He's not used to playing out there and it has cut down on his effectiveness."

Up front the Hawks are getting stronger by the game. Center Scott Green had his best night of the year, coming back from multiple ankle injuries, with 21 points and 17 rebounds while Wally Butman has hit for 36 points in the last two games. Mark Staddler, a freshman from Elk Grove, moved into the starting lineup and connected for 13 points.

ELK GROVE'S Tom Balla flies to an 8.2 on his high bar routine during the Grens' 138.11 to 116.11 dual meet victory over Arlington last week. Balla, who placed on The Herald's Honor Roll, will be back in action tonight when Elk Grove hosts Palatine.

Barrington moves one step closer to Mid-Suburban

by ART MUGALIAN

Barrington High School has been unanimously accepted as a member of the Inter-Suburban Assn. (ISA), the Herald learned Wednesday.

The move paves the way for Barrington's entrance into the Mid-Suburban League.

The ISA, governing body for several area athletic conferences, approved Barrington's application for membership during a meeting Tuesday.

Barrington, currently a member of the North Suburban Conference, would join the MSL in the fall of 1977, if approved by the principals of the MSL schools. That vote is expected to be taken in January and will be a matter of routine, according to several sources.

Barrington would fit neatly into the MSL's North division along with Palatine, Hersey, Wheeling, Fremd, Arlington, and Buffalo Grove. There are already seven schools in the MSL South division — Prospect, Schaumburg, Hoffman Estates, Conant, Forest View, Elk Grove, and Rolling Meadows.

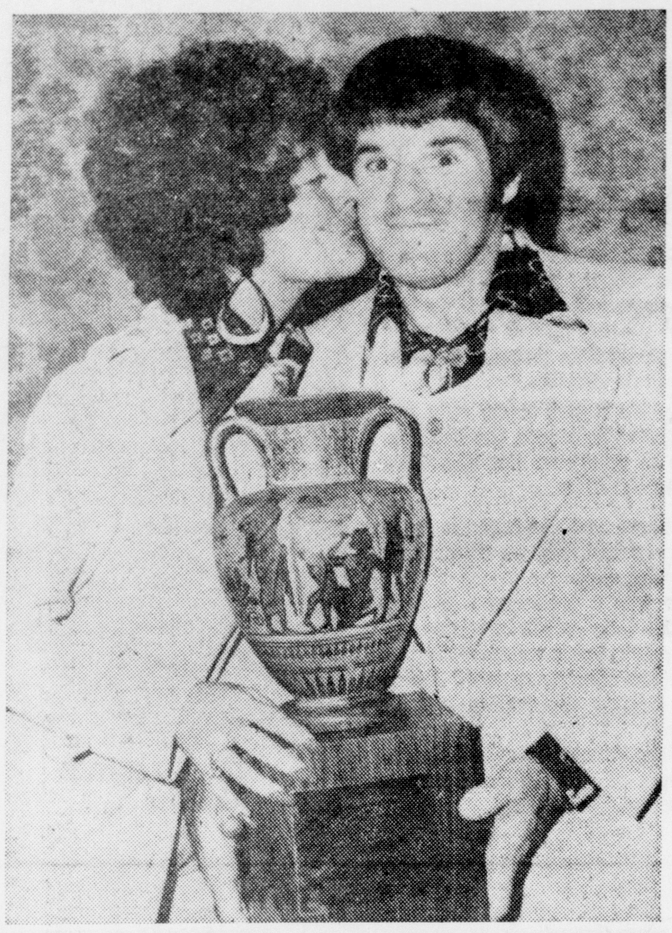

"We're definitely interested in Barrington — it's really just a formality now," said MSL board-of-control director Robert Hoese, who indicated that there is virtually no opposition to Barrington's membership in the league.

Which division Barrington is placed in will be decided at a later date, but it is generally assumed that the Broncos will compete in the North division.

"Barrington knew that when they

Flyers bop Hawks, 4-2

Bob Kelly and Reggie Leach scored third period goals only 96 seconds apart Wednesday night to give the Philadelphia Flyers a 4-2 victory over the Chicago Black Hawks and made goalie Wayne Stephenson the first 20-game winner in the National Hockey League this season.

The Flyers never trailed in the game as Rick MacLeish scored on a power play for the first goal of the game and after Dennis Hull tied the match with the Hawks first shorthanded goal of the season, Ross Lonsberry scored on a tip-in to put the Flyers in front again.

Pit Martin's 13th goal in the second period tied the game again before the Flyers closing outburst. It was the third straight loss for the Black Hawks and their fifth in the last six games, but they retained first place in the Conn Smythe Division.

Maggie out six weeks

Defenseman Keith Magnuson of the Chicago Black Hawks had emergency surgery for an intestinal blockage Wednesday and will be out of the lineup for six weeks.

Magnuson reportedly was stricken during the night and surgery was performed before noon by Dr. Anthony Ramos. Magnuson practiced with the team Tuesday and had no physical complaints.

New facts in Carter case

A report commissioned by New Jersey Gov. Brendan T. Byrne places former boxer Rubin "Hurricane" Carter and John Artis at the scene of a triple murder in 1966 but not actually performing the shootings, it was reported Wednesday.

The Paterson (N.J.) News said the information compiled by Assemblyman Eldridge Hawkins, D-Essex, was contained in a 25-page report commissioned by the Governor because the two key prosecution witnesses who identified Carter and Artis as the gunmen had recanted their testimony.

Byrne is considering a request for executive clemency, and the state Supreme Court is weighing a request by the two men for a new trial.

Lane likes Sox' new boss

Frank Lane, who once served as Paul Richards' boss with the Chicago White Sox, said Wednesday the appointment of the 67-year-old Richards as manager of the White Sox for the 1976 season was just what the club needed to get out of the doldrums.

"I think it's tremendous," said Lane, a former general manager of three big league clubs and currently a scout for the California Angels. "He did one helluva job for me for five years. I told him managing was where he belonged. He's a cagey sunuvagun. The five years I had with him were perfect.

"The South Side (of Chicago) will rise again. This is the greatest thing that can happen to (owner Bill) Veeck in the South Side. Richards will revive the old Go-Go Sox. When he was with the White Sox, we had a horrible ballclub and he did one helluva job."

Richards has not managed a big league team since 1965 but Lane did not think that would be a factor in his performance.

"It's not that he's been away from baseball entirely," says Lane. "How old is he? 67. Hell, he's just a boy. I'm 80 and still active in baseball. I'm delighted. I think Paul will be received with open arms.

Lease foils Giants' sale

Radio station executive Lester Smith says he and his business partner, comedian Danny Kaye, could own the San Francisco Giants this week if it weren't for the problem of the Giants' lease on Candlestick Park.

Smith returned Tuesday night from San Francisco where he and Kaye met with Charles Feeney, president of the National League.

"If not for the hangup on the lease, we could have the Giants tomorrow," Smith said. "But there is a hangup."

It's an 18-year hangup. That's how long the lease has to run.

While Smith and Kaye talked to Feeney, Giants owner Horace Stoneham met with the club's directors.

"Nothing was done about the sale of the club," Stoneham said. "We just discussed the situation."

Smith said he and Kaye were ready to pay $10 million for the Giants.

"We are ready to put our offer in writing," he said.

Smith said the American League, which faces an anti-trust lawsuit over the moving of the Seattle Pilots to Milwaukee in 1969, has promised help in trying to solve the Giants lease problem "but we don't know how much help that means."

The cost of satisfying the Giants' lease has been estimated at upwards of $7 million. A Toronto group, which had offered $14 million for the Giants, dropped out of the bidding two weeks ago because of the indemnification price.

din. He cut his fingers badly enough to require eight stitches trying to put on his license plates.

Danny Muenz made the Honor Roll in three events as well as posting the best all-around average (7.87) in the conference last week.

Ray Peters was the only other Huskie to make the select squad, throwing an 8.6 trampoline routine to lead the league.

Still, head coach Don Von Ebers sees even better days ahead for his team.

"We're nowhere near our potential," Von Ebers said. "We're still weak in our third and fourth men but

Keith Liszewski

I'm hoping we'll be ready for the more crucial meets in January."

Arlington's lone Honor Roll member is trampolinist Chris Smith, who fired an 8.0 in a dual meet loss to Elk Grove last week.

The Cardinals need a stronger performance from high bar men Curt Burkhardt, Rob Erickson and Tim Fallon to put them at 120-point level.

Schaumburg head coach Gary Larococo's best specialist is free ex man Mark Sterle.

Sterle tumbled to a 7.45 last week and Larocco says, "It's only a matter of time before Mark is up with the best in the league."

Mississippi leaves flyway

The Jackson, Miss. state Game and Fish Commission has withdrawn from the Mississippi Flyway Council after charging discrimination against its Southern members.

The commission's board of directors voted unanimously to pull out of the council, which had represented 13 states along or near the Mississippi River. It also appointed a seven-member waterfowl committee aimed at soliciting other states to join a new group to be entitled the Southern Mississippi Flyway Council.

The dispute between the state commission and the Flyway Council centered around bag limits, hunting seasons and other regulations affecting migratory waterfowl.

Louisiana and Alabama previously withdrew from the council, which makes recommendations to the federal government. Avery Wood, state director of conservation, said the flyway council's northern states have gained a disproportionate voice in its actions in recent years.

applied for membership to the ISA they were applying to the North division of the Mid-Suburban League," continued Hoese, who is also principal of Rolling Meadows High School.

ISA board president Richard Kolze confirmed his group's action Wednesday afternoon, stating, "I have advised Barrington to make contact with the Mid-Suburban League board of control," relevant to the league's next step in admitting the new school in membership.

"We've discussed the pros and cons with our coaches — and there are pros and cons," said Barrington principal Bernard Wenninger. "And we feel it is in the best interest of Barrington High School to join the MSL."

Wenninger said that he has been assured by several MSL principals that Barrington's application to the league will be okayed.

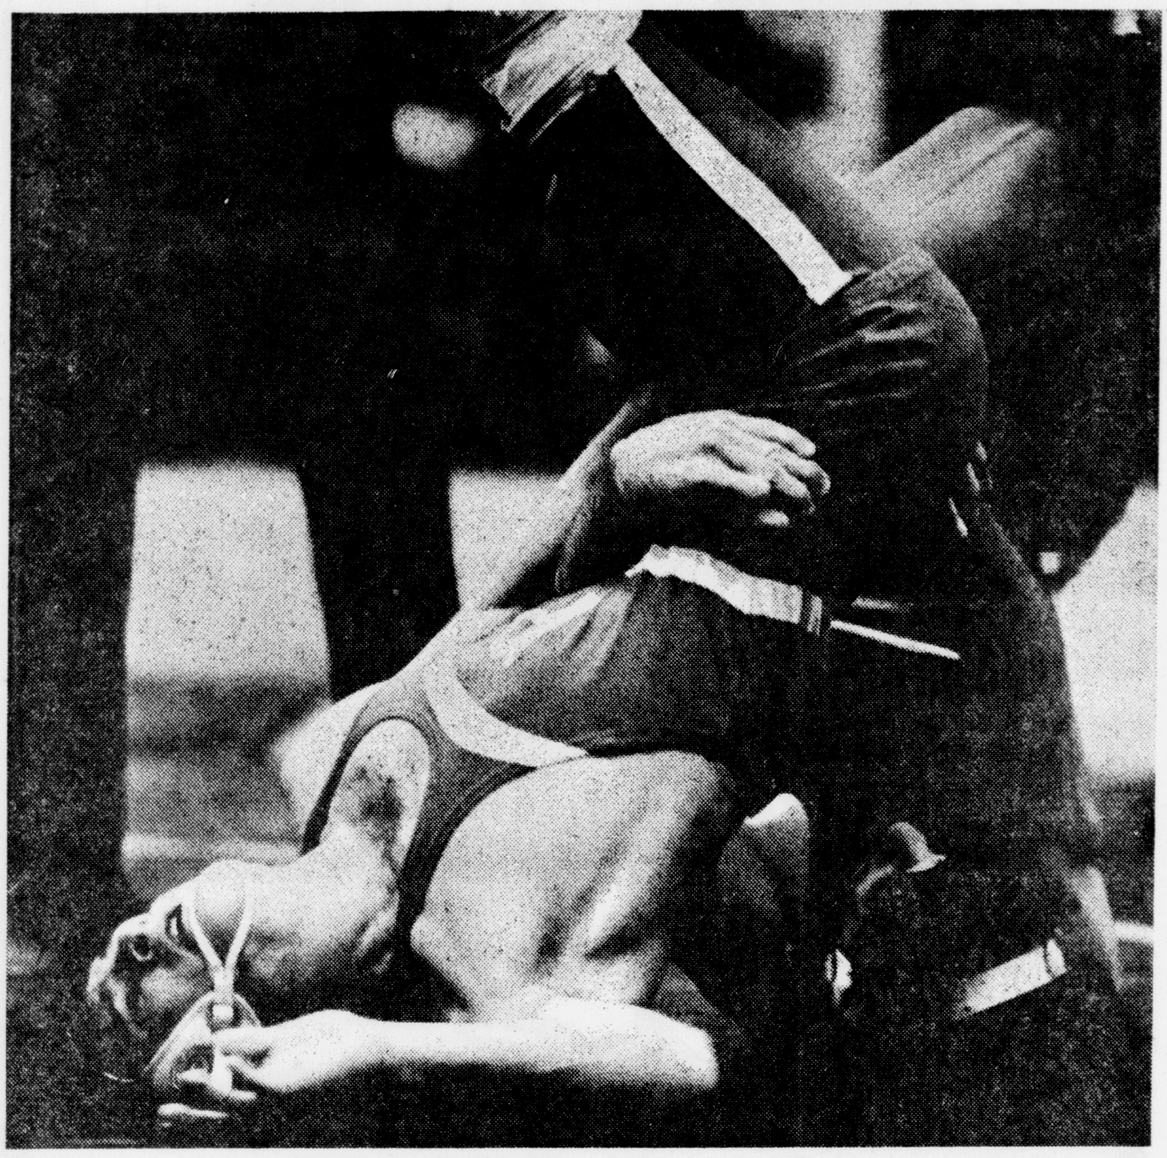

Most Mid-Suburban observers who were questioned agreed that the acceptance of Barrington is just a formality now. The athletic directors are already on record as favoring the addition of Barrington.

"The ADs were the ones who said we should get someone for the league," said Palatine's athletic director, Chic Anderson. "I think it's just a matter of them saying to the administrators that they want Barrington."

Charlie Feutz, athletic director at Conant, said: "We were making overtures to them to get them to come into our league for two or three years. It's been a long time coming. I can't see anything that would keep them out now."

Barrington would represent the third school district in the MSL. Eight schools belong to Dist. 214 and five others are in Dist. 211.

Kolze, who is superintendent of Dist. 211, indicated that the 18 members of the ISA board voted unanimously to welcome the Barrington School District into the fold starting with the 1977-78 school year.

Cool, sultry Lola debuts on ABC

by JOAN HANAUER

NEW YORK (UPI) — Whatever Lola Falana wants, Lola's likely to get.

What she's got right now is sex appeal, songstress showmanship and the first of four of her very own specials on ABC.

Lola appears on ABC today from 9 to 10 p.m. backed up by Hal Linden and Muhammad Ali.

Miss Falana makes a stunning star in a succession of costumes, and she also combines cool poise with a sultry innocence that can be a knockout.

SHE EXPLAINS her name by saying she was looking for something that would reflect the black experience and her black heritage, and Lola Falana summed it all up.

"In Swahili it means Debbie," she threw in.

The show gives Hal Linden, alias Barney Miller, a chance to sing again in an appealing skit in which he is an understanding, fey bum and Lola enacts a ragamuffin girl who wants to run away from home. They do a duet of "Corner of the Sky" from the Broadway show "Pippin."

If Lola knows how to put over a song, she still may draw some flack from the older folks when she belts out a mod version of "Stormy Weather" that misses the low-down pulsing beat of old fashioned blues.

Specials are the name of the rating game these days, and when the networks put talent under the Christmas tree, they generally come up with a winner.

Of the top 10 network shows in the A. C. Nielsen ratings for the week ending Dec. 14, five were Christmas specials, and four were hosted by stars — Bob Hope, John Denver, Dean Martin and Mac Davis.

One Christmas animation favorite made it into the top ten — "Frosty the Snowman" — and "The Tiny Tree" and "Santa Claus Is Coming to Town" were in the top 20.

"The Homecoming," a repeat of the Christmas special starring Patricia Neal that also was the pilot for "The Waltons," scored in the top 20. And in case anyone is under the delusion that the popularity of "All In The Family" is done with mirrors, it took up two places in the top ten — first place for the regular Monday night program and ninth for a Tuesday repeat of Mike and Gloria's wedding.

Best shows on television tonight

"The Waltons." Big city lumber company moves in and undercuts even the Waltons' rock-bottom prices, and Ben leaves home. 7 p.m. Channel 2.

"Barney Miller." Protection racket moves into the neighborhood because of a rumor the station is being closed down. 7 p.m. Channel 7.

* * *

"On the Rocks." Several of the Alamesa prisoners devise a plan to improve working conditions. 7:30 p.m. Channel 7.

"Ellery Queen." Mystery writer Keene Curtis wins the annual Blunt Instrument Award, phones Ellery to invite him to a victory party but is murdered before finishing the call. Guest Eva Gabor, John Dehner. 8 p.m. Channel 5.

"Classic Theatre: The Humanities in Drama." "Mrs. Warren's Profession," by George Bernard Shaw. Her profession, the oldest, supports her respectable daughter. Coral Browne stars. 8 p.m. Channel 11.

"Barnaby Jones." Forgery, murder and a hidden body combine with a valuable art collection for high suspense for Buddy Ebsen as Jones. 9 p.m. Channel 2.

Hamlet takes big gamble with this hand

Win at bridge

by Oswald and Jim Jacoby

It was the last rubber at Castle Elsinore. Hamlet, sitting South, ~~knew~~ he should have passed the fair Ophelia's diamond opening, but people tend to bid in the last rubber.

Similarly, Ophelia didn't have to jump all the way to three notrump, but she had great faith in Hamlet.

West opened the king of spades. Hamlet ducked, but had to win the spade continuation. Then he soliloquized, "To gamble, or not to gamble. Ah, there's the rub. For whether 'tis better to suffer a small penalty or to test the slings and arrows of outrageous fortune and risk a seven trick set.

Then he led dummy's king of hearts, overtook with his ace and led his 10 of diamonds. The finesse worked and all was well at Castle Elsinore.

The finesse was not as much of a gamble as it might have been. West's bid had marked him with a lot of high cards and he was more likely than not to hold the king of diamonds.

YEAR 'ROUND SAVINGS ON BRAND NAME FURNITURE FOR THE OFFICE AND THE OFFICE AT HOME

Pledged accounts help ease tax paying

by LEA TONKIN

A new Illinois law effective Jan. 1 will take some of the sting out of tax time.

Home buyers can pledge an interest-bearing savings account with a lender and pay their own taxes from other funds under the new law. It's a change from the policy enforced by many lenders which required a borrower to shell out monthly payment for taxes, insurance and other obligations for a non-interest bearing escrow account.

Donald F. Morton

Home buyers can go the traditional route, allowing a bank or savings and loan association to pay their taxes for them. The savings for customers who choose to pay their own taxes can be substantial, however.

"IF YOUR TAX bill is $1,000 a year, your pledged savings account earns you more than $50 a year in interest — or enough to pay for two weeks worth of your property tax," said Robert J. Hansen, president of the Illinois Savings and Loan League. The pledged savings account remains untouched as a guarantee of the borrower's obligations, he said.

The legislation, sponsored by State Rep. Robert Egan, D-Chicago and State Rep. Jack Williams, D-Franklin Park, provides an alternative to home buyers that previously was offered by few lenders. Area homeowners frequently asked whey they drew no interest on escrow accounts, Egan said.

"If the escrow is not being used, they feel it's theirs — that they have the right to collect interest," he said.

The new law does not apply to lending institutions that use the capitalization method for taxi payments. Capitalization involves the crediting of tax payments directly to the loan principal. The loan balance increases when taxes are paid. The law applies to single-family homes which are owner occupied, and only to mortgages opened after Jan. 1, 1976.

THE LAW provides for a pledged account only for taxes. The lender could include payment for insurance and other costs, however.

Donald F. Morton, president of Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Assn., said the institution has offered a pledged account system for 15 years.

The combination of monthly principal, interest, insurance and tax escrow mortgage payments "almost inevitably irritates the borrower and encourages an antagonistic relationship at the very outset of the first notice of increased monthly payments," he said.

Customers sometimes direct their anger at lenders rather than a taxing body when they discover that a tax hike is not covered by previous payments, Morton said. The borrower is also annoyed that his money in an escrow account does not earn interest.

UNDER THE plan used by Arlington Federal, interest is earned on a pledged account in which 1.5 the total of the previous years' taxes, insurance and other payments is held intact.

If a borrower does not pay taxes on time, the Mortgage Escrow Account Act allows the lender to establish an escrow account. When 35 per cent of the mortgage amount is paid, a borrower can terminate the escrow account. The "seasoned" borrower can then set up a pledged account and pay his own taxes.

The account will be changed to escrow if the customer does not pay the taxes. Federally-supported loans such as Federal Housing Administration loans do not qualify for the option.

ON THE WAY UP: Home sales and sale prices are increasing, according to a survey by the National Assn. of Realtors. Lower priced homes represent a decline of the market share.

Sale of single-family homes continues to rise

Continued improvement in the U.S. single-family home sales market is reported by the National Assn. of Realtors, Dept. of Economics and Research.

The association's most recent sales figures, for the month of October, shows an increase in sales and median home-sale prices. The seasonally adjusted sales volume index, using 1972 sales as 100, rose three points to 122.

Record savings inflows at thrift institutions during the first 10 months of 1975 were a significant factor in the existing home sales increase, the report said. The association said continued sales improvement will depend on the availability of credit for mortgage loans.

AN 11 PER CENT increase in existing home prices during the past year was reported. For sales during October, the median home price tag of $35,380 compares to $31,870 a year earlier. The department said the percentage of homes priced less than $30,000 declined. Sales in various price categories are shown in the above chart.

Homes with four or more bedrooms accounted for 25.8 per cent of the market during October. The median price for these homes was $48,520.

Three-bedroom homes, which accounted for 55.7 cent of monthly sales, sold for a median price of $34,830.

Two-bedroom home sales, totaling 18.5 per cent of the October market, sold for a median price of $25,090.

The report is based on information submitted by some 140 boards of real estate.

Variable rate mortgages on homes seen in future

There may be a future for variable rate mortgages on owner occupied homes, said the Federal Reserve Bank of Chicago in its recent publication, "Business Conditions."

The Federal Home Loan Bank Board proposed the variable rate mortgage which would allow federally chartered savings and loan associations to issue residential variable mortgages. Although the proposal affecting single-family home loans was withdrawn under pressure from consumer and labor groups, the variable mortgages are allowed on multi-family and commercial properties as of Dec. 8.

THE SYSTEM provides that the interest rate on a loan is subject to change. A specific indicator of market interest rates or an index of wages and prices is used to determine the rate. The change may include an adjustment in the monthly payment or the period of amortization.

Some lenders support the variable mortgages, as a means of maintaining savings flows for home financing during periods of rising interest rates, the bank said. They say that lenders cannot pay high rates on savings accounts necessary to supply mortgage funds unless the return on loans rises along with the cost of money.

Rising interest rates during the past decade may have triggered resistance to variable mortgages, the bank said. As price increases become smaller, the required downward adjustment in the rate could work to the benefit of borrowers.

$2,000 savings with tax credit: Zale

Home buyers can reduce the purchase price of a new home by $2,000 if they take advantage of a federal tax credit by Dec. 31, said Edward Zale, president of the Home Builders Assn. of Greater Chicago.

Zale is secretary of Zale Construction Co. and a partner of Meadow Edge Co., both of Arlington Heights.

The 1975 Tax Reform Act provides a tax credit for new home purchases if certain conditions are met, Zale said. The regulations include:

- The buyer must be the first person to live in the home.
- Written certification must be offered, showing that the purchase price is the lowest price offered as of Feb. 28.
- The home was completed or under construction by March 26, 1975.
- The home must be occupied before Jan. 1, 1977.

THE TAX-DEDUCTIBLE SAVINGS ACCOUNT IS HERE!

If you are presently employed and are not covered by a qualified pension or profit sharing plan, then you may be eligible for a tax-exempt Individual Retirement Account. The Pension Reform Act of 1974 allows you to make deposits to a special savings account and to deduct the amount up to $1,500 per year or 15% of gross income (which ever is less) from your income taxes. And the interest you earn or the funds are not taxed until withdrawn. This allows you an additional tax savings now, while you are working and while you are in a higher tax bracket than you will be when you retire.

First Federal Savings can help. One of our experienced savings counselors will assist you in setting up an Individual Retirement Account and explain all the details...the substantial growth potential provided by the compounding of interest...how your savings account will not be subject to market fluctuations...and your funds will earn from the day of deposit until you begin to withdraw them. Here's your last chance to save

One of the biggest housing bargains of a lifetime — the chance to save up to $2,000 on a new home — will come to an end Dec. 31, 1975. That's when the special Federal tax credit program will expire.

"We have at present a limited number of homes in New Century Town, Village on the Lake and The Park of River Oaks that qualify for the credit, providing savings of $1,205 to $2,000, depending on the price of the unit," stated Robert Frommer, president of United Development Company, a subsidiary of Urban Investment and Development Co.

The tax credit applies only to homes that were under costruction by March 26, 1975 and that are purchased before Jan. 1, 1976. The buyer needn't take delivery until sometime in 1976. On homes that qualify, the buyer can deduct five per cent of the purchase price from his 1975 federal income tax, up to a maximum of $2,000.

"This is money that the buyer doesn't have to pay in income taxes," Frommer said. "For example, if a buyer would normally pay $5,000 in taxes, he would only pay $3,000 if the home he purchased qualified for a $2,000 credit. That's a substantial savings, but the opportunity to realize it will be gone after Dec. 31."

Homes in United Development's three communities range in size from one-bedroom one-bath to three-bedrooms, 2½-baths, and in price from $25,000 to $48,000.

The three United communities in which these units are located are: New Century Town, in the northwest suburb of Vernon Hills; Village on the Lake, in northwest Elk Grove Village; and The Park of River Oaks, in Calumet City, south of Chicago.

New Century Town has four homes available that are eligible for the tax credit. They are: a one-bedroom garden apartment condominium; a two-bedroom, 1½-bath townhome; and two three-bedroom, 2½-bath townhomes. They range in price from $26,900 to $47,200. Under the tax credit system, buyers of these units can save between $1,345 and $2,000, depending upon the price of the unit they select.

Furnished models at New Century Town are on display Monday through Saturday from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Sunday from 10 a.m. to 7 p.m. The entrance to the model area is on Vernon Drive at Town Line Road (Ill. 60), 1½-miles west of Milwaukee Avenue (Ill. 21).

At Village on the Lake home buyers can choose from among a variety of tax-credit eligible condominium apartment units. These include one-bedroom plus den; two-bedroom, two-bath; and three-bedroom, two-bath homes. Prices run from $32,490 to $39,290, and tax credits of from $1,625 to $1,955 can be realized with the purchase of these homes.

Village on the Lake can be reached by taking the Northwest Tollway to the Arlington Heights Road south exit. Go south to Biesterfield Road in Elk Grove Village and turn west two blocks to Wellington Avenue. Furnished models are open from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m., Monday through Saturday, and from 11 a.m. to 6 p.m. Sunday.

Dec. 31 is deadline for 1975 IRA plan

Citing a 1975 Investment Company Institute study, Vern Nelson, local representative for the Investors Diversified Services (IDS) sales organization, recently pointed out that many of the 40 million Americans eligible for an Individual Retirement Account (IRA) know little or nothing about the plan. The deadline for establishing a 1975 IRA plan is December 31.

The IRA was created by the Employee Retirement Income Security Act, signed by President Ford in September of 1974. The IRA provisions were effective last January 1. An IRA allows employees who are not participants in an existing retirement plan to put aside up to 15 per cent of their yearly earnings or $1,500 (whichever is lower) to provide for retirement. Money set aside in an IRA is tax deductible.

So far this year IDS representatives have helped clients in the United States set up 15,853 IRA and Keogh plans. Keogh plans, established in 1963, are available to self-employed individuals and partnerships.

The new law boosts the annual deductible contribution limit for Keogh plans to 15 per cent of earned income up to a maximum contribution of $7,500. The minimum contribution has been set at 100 per cent of income or $750, whichever is less. The limit on annual voluntary contributions, over and above deductible maximums, is still 10 per cent of earnings up to a maximum of $2,500. These voluntary contributions are not tax deductible although earnings on them are tax deferred until withdrawn.

The deadline for establishing a 1975 Keogh plan is also December 31, Nelson said.

Toys for Tots

This year, St. Paul employees are sponsoring a party for 100 children ages three-nine who are enrolled at the J. Lovett Special Education School, in classes for the physically handicapped. Besides bringing gifts to the students at this Bloomingdale Avenue school, more toys are being sent to the children at Marillac House in Chicago.

Friends and neighbors of all St. Paul Federal Savings offices are invited to join in this Toys for Tots program from December 1-15. Experience the Christmas Spirit . . . the joy of giving. Real estate course to begin

Under current State of Illinois requirements, a person who is interested in becoming a real estate salesman in the State of Illinois must complete a 30-hour Basic Real Estate Transactions course from an approved school in order to be eligible to take the state real estate salesman's license examination.

D'Ann McClain, director of training and administration, Real Estate Education Company, has released the schedule of classes to meet these requirements. "I'm very pleased to announce that we will begin January classes in 13 different locations throughout the State," McClain said. "Seven of these classes will be held throughout the Chicago area in Alsip, Oakbrook, Palatine, Winnetka, Lake Forest, Rosemont and the near north side."

The course, approved by both the Department of Registration and Education and the State of Illinois Office of Educaion, consists of 30 classroom hours of training in compliance with the state requirements. Of the students of Real Estate Education Company who successfully completed this course, 92 per cent have passed the state licensing examination.

On Monday, Jan. 5, at 6:30 p.m., evening courses will begin at the Winnetka Community House, 620 Lincoln, Winnetka; Sheraton Oak Brook, 1401 W. 22nd St., Oak Brook; the Holiday Inn, 5000 W. 127th St., Alsip, and the Exel Inn, 6465 N. Mannheim, Rosemont.

Give live tree a home for Christmas

At this time of year, interest in trees traditionally shifts to the Christmas tree, center of the festive holiday celebration in most homes.

Each year, the use of live evergreen Christmas trees in homes is increasing. Many homeowners purchase a live balled-and-burlapped tree and are disappointed when it fails to grow after Christmas when planted outdoors.

There are several reasons why live Christmas trees planted at this time of year die, according to R. E. Abbott of the Davey Tree Research Center, Kent, Ohio.

"In the North, if you plan to buy a live Christmas tree this year, the hole should be dug before the ground freezes. After digging, the hole should be covered with wood chips, leaves or peat moss at least a foot deep so that the soil will not freeze," Mr. Abbott said.

A live Christmas tree cannot adjust to sudden changes in temperature. Moving the tree into the house and back outside are the two critical periods. A few days in an unheated garage when moving in and out will allow the plant to gradually adjust.

Be sure to place the tree ball (burlap intact) in a water-tight container or wrap the entire ball in plastic, such as Visqueen. Water the tree daily, using about a pint of water for an average six-foot tree. This will prevent the roots from drying out. Remember the needles of an evergreen require moisture continuously in reduced amounts during the dormant season.

"If a live tree is kept in the home too long, it will break dormancy and the new buds will start growing," Abbott cautions. "Careful observation is necessary to detect if the buds are expanding or starting to swell. Any expansion or swelling is often enough to break the built-in cold protection. If that happens, when planted outside, the tree will not survive the normal winter temperatures."

A good rule of thumb is — wait as long as possible before bringing the tree into the home, and plant the tree outdoors as soon as possible.

After planting the tree, soak the soil with warm water to break up any chunks of frozen soil. When frozen soil is placed around the roots, it is very difficult to avoid air pockets.

Mulch with wood chips or bark mulch to at least a foot deep. Sprinkle a couple of handfuls of fertilizer with an immediately available nitrogen source to start the decay process working. This chip or bark mulch will heat up and root growth will continue on the tree as long as the ground is not frozen.

"If the plant is exposed to drying winter winds," Abbott said, "establish a windbreak of burlap, evergreen boughs or a snow fence to afford the tree some protection. Moisture reducing films, are available at most nurseries or garden centers. Their use would retard drying out of the foliage."

Newly transplanted evergreens have difficulty transporting adequate water from the soil to needles because of their reduced root system. Once they are established this is less of a problem.

Usually, you will not need to water again until spring. If there should be a dry warm spell during the spring, or summer particularly, water the tree well and keep watering weekly as you would for a spring planted tree or shrub.

By following these simple suggestions, you can have a live tree as a permanent remembrance of "Christmas 1975."

Earn interest with new tax law

Would you like to have two weeks worth of your property tax paid for you?

A new Illinois law which takes effect next year will allow you to pledge an interest-bearing savings account that permits you to pay your own real estate taxes.

"You pay your taxes from other funds while the pledged savings account remains untouched as a guarantee of your tax obligations," says Robert J. Hansen, president of the Illinois Savings and Loan League.

"If your tax bill is $1,000 a year, your pledged savings account earns you more than $50 a year in interest — or enough to pay for two weeks worth of your property tax," Hansen says.

The law, sponsored by State Senator Robert Egan of Chicago and Rep. Jack Williams of Franklin Park, provides for an option to the usual escrow arrangement in providing for the payment of property taxes.

Under the common tax escrow method the borrower is required to make regular payments and the lender pays the taxes and other assessments on the property covered by the mortgage.

But with an escrow account, the borrower receives no interest income. Lenders see the escrow account as a service and to pay interest is to further increase their costs of offering that service, Hansen says.

The pledged savings account, on the other hand, allows the homeowner to handle his own bills for property taxes and receive interest, while giving the lender the assurance that the security of the property is safeguarded by the pledged account.

Senator Egan, whose district includes the Norwood Park area of Chicago, says that 90 per cent of the dwellings in his district are single-family dwellings and that a frequent question he received was why interest wasn't paid on their escrow accounts.

The feeling was current, he said, that "if the escrow is not being used, they feel it's theirs — that they have the right to collect interest."

He reports that "most people aware of the new law are very grateful for it."

(The law does not apply to those lending institutions that use the capitalization method for receipt of payments for taxes. Capitalization involves the crediting of tax payments directly to the loan principal. The loan balance is increased when the taxes are paid.)

The law applies to single family, owner-occupied residential property, and only to those mortgages opened after January 1, 1976.

The pledged savings account provided in the law covers only tax payments, but the lender could include in it payments for insurance and other assessments.

One savings and loan association has offered a pledged account in lieu of escrow for 15 years.

Donald F. Morton, president of Arlington Heights Federal Savings and Loan Association, says that the combination of monthly principal, interest, taxes and insurance escrow mortgage payments "almost inevitably irritates the borrower and encourages an antagonistic relationship at the very outset of the first notice of increased monthly payments."

In Illinois tax receipts are often 12 to 18 months behind the period to which they apply. When the homeowner learns that a rise in taxes isn't covered in past payments, his anger is directed more at the savings institution than at the taxing body.

The borrower is further annoyed that his money in the escrow fund is not producing any interest return, Morton says.

Arlington Federal Savings has been requiring the borrower to pledge at least one and one-half times the total of the previous year's taxes, insurance and assessments, and this amount remains intact throughout the agreement.

The new Illinois law, known as the Mortgage Escrow Account Act (Public Act 79-625), provides that if the borrower with a pledged account fails to pay his own taxes, the lender can establish an escrow account without interference.

The act further says that on conventional loans when 35 per cent of the mortgage is paid off, the borrower may terminate an escrow account.

At that point — some years later — the loan is said to be "seasoned." A record of timely payments has been shown.

The borrower must then be given the privilege of continuing the escrow, or discontinuing it and paying his own taxes and assessments.

But the lender may re-establish a escrow account if the homeowner fails to pay his tax obligations and good faith efforts have shown he did not do so.

Not covered by the pledged account are federally supported loans such as FHA loans, since these are required to have an escrow for the life of the loan.

Despite the opportunity to earn interest on their tax obligation, many property owners prefer their bank or savings association to pay their taxes for them. And for many persons the escrow account, though it doesn't provide interest income, is still the method they will choose.

Still, homeowners will have a choice. And it is that choice that will help take some of the sting out of tax time in Illinois.

2 named to board of directors

Radio Shack President Lewis F. Kornfeld, Jr. and executive vice president G. R. Nugent have been named to the board of directors of Tandy Corporation (NYSE), Radio Shack's parent company.

Their appointment was announced by Charles D. Tandy, chairman of the board and chief executive officer of Tandy Corporation at the company's annual stockholders meeting.

Originally from Boston, Massachusetts, Kornfeld received his M.A. from the University of Denver in 1941, then worked as a college instructor and later as a reporter for the Denver Rocky Mountain News. During World War II he served as a communications officer with the Marine Corps in the South Pacific with the rank of Captain.

Kornfeld joined Radio Shack as advertising manager in 1948 and in 1954 was promoted to vice president, advertising. In 1958 he was made vice president, merchandising and advertising, a position he held until being named president in 1970.

G. R. "Bill" Nugent is originally from Medford, Oklahoma and a graduate of Northwestern State College in Alva, Oklahoma. He joined the Tandy organization in 1952 as one of the first retail store managers for Tandy Leather Company.

When Tandy Corporation acquired Radio Shack in 1963, Nugent directed the westward expansion of the company. In 1969 he was made vice president of the company's central region, and executive vice president in 1970. In 1972 Nugent was made a vice president of Tandy Corporation.

Tandy Corporation is now principally an electronics specialty retailer with company-owned manufacturing which supplies over 33 per cent of Radio Shack sales. The company recently completed all requirements to spin off two new companies and split the concern into three separate parts.

Under the plan, Tandy Corporation remains in the consumer electronics business, represented by Radio Shack, Tandy International Electronics, Tandy Electronics Manufacturing and Allied Electronics. The corporation's hobby and handicrafts business has been spun off as Tandycrafts, Inc. and its leather-goods manufacturing business as Tandy Brands Inc.

Also, at the annual meeting, the Board of Directors of Tandy Corporation declared a two-for-one stock split-up in the form of a dividend, to be effected by the distribution of one additional share of Tandy Corporation common stock, $1 par value, for each share of common stock outstanding. The distribution is expected to be made on January 9, 1976 to stockholders of record on December 12, 1975.

On June 30 Tandy closed its 1975 fiscal year showing gains in sales and net income for the twelfth consecutive year. The electronics group contributed 68 per cent of total company sales. For the first quarter of fiscal 1976 the company reported a sales gain of 30 per cent over the same period last year for the electronics group. Total company earnings were up 108 per cent.

Gamberdino for state's attorney post

Nello P. Gamberdino of Deerfield is a candidate for the Democratic nomination for Lake County State's Attorney in the March 16 primary.

A private attorney, Gamberdino has 10 years experience as a public prosecutor in Cook and Lake counties. He received his law degree from DePaul University in Chicago and also holds a master's degree in labor-management relations from Loyola University.

Recently Gamberdino was certified as a diplomat of the Court Practice Institute, Chicago, where he completed a residency in the science of trial advocacy.

Gamberdino is a member of the Lions Club of Deerfield, the Loyal Order of Moose in Waukegan, the Knights of Columbus in Highland Park, the Illinois State Bar Assn., the Lake County Bar Assn., the Justinian Society of Lawyers, the Catholic Lawyers Guild, the American Judicature Society and the Democrats of South Lake County.

The current state's attorney, Republican Jack Hoogasian, has not kept pace with the county, according to Gamberdino.

"The present State's Attorney is concerned only with his personal image created by a convictions-obtained percentage and how it relates to his reelection campaign," Gamberdino said.

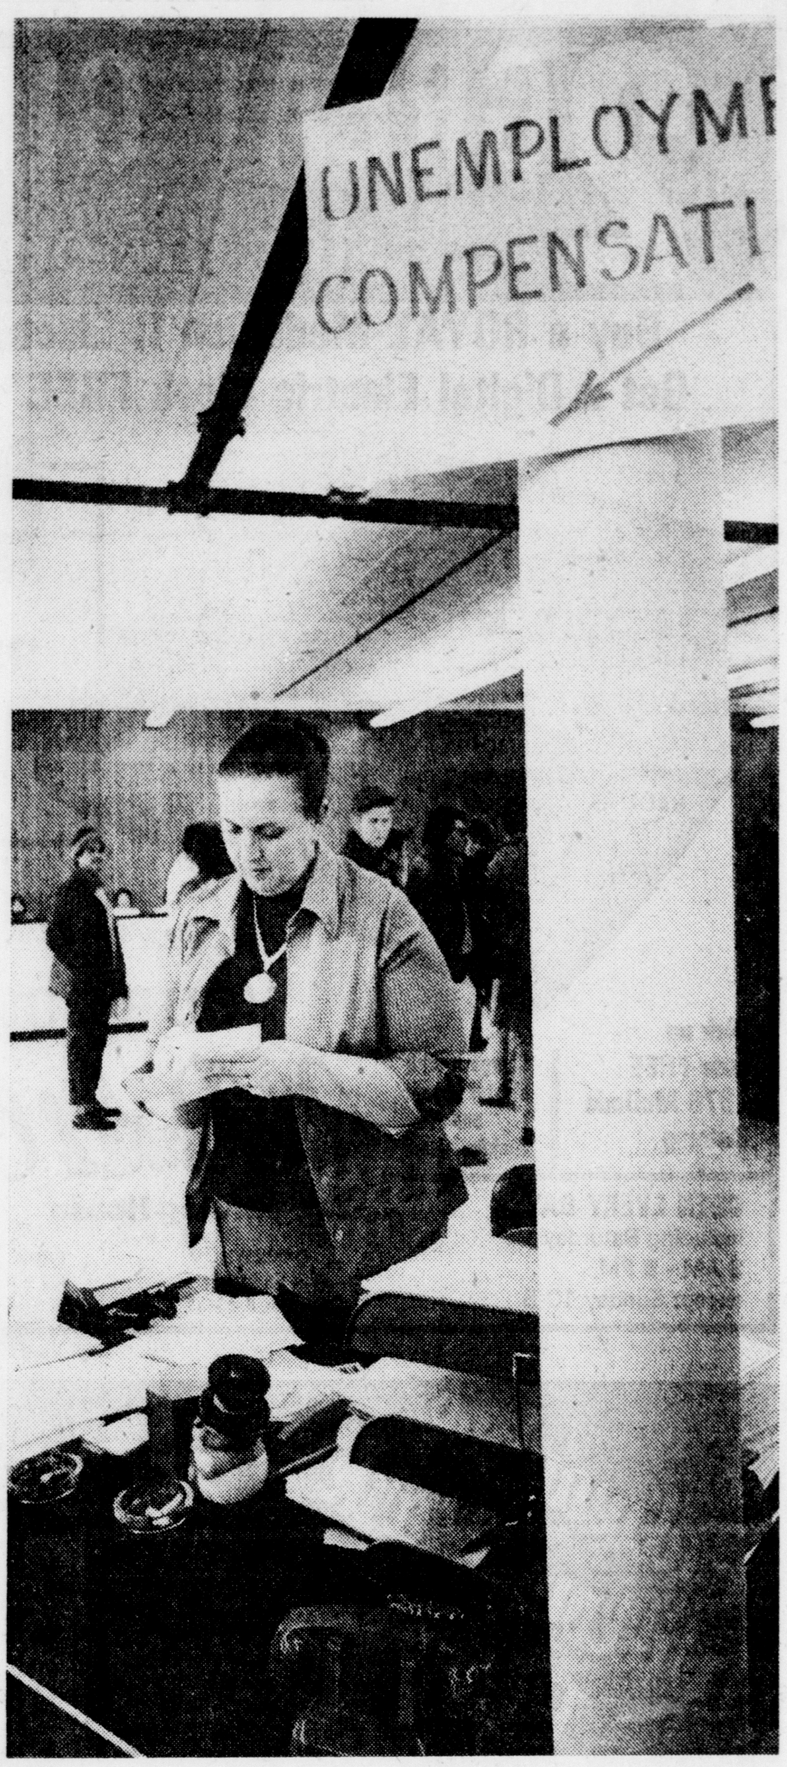

$10,000 in jewelry taken at apartment

Police Wednesday were investigating the theft of about $10,000 in jewelry stolen late Tuesday in a burglary of real estate developer L. F. Draper's apartment in Palatine.

Draper told police he was visiting his wife at Evanston Hospital and returned to the apartment at 1170 Sterling Ave. and discovered the break-in.

Taken were a diamond ring with emeralds, a diamond watch, a cosmetic bag, an 1847 $5 gold piece attached to a necklace and various other gold and diamond pieces, Draper told police.

Entry was gained sometime between 5 and 10:50 p.m. Tuesday through patio doors, police said.

UNEMPLOYMENT CLAIMS can now be filed at 40 N. Main St., Mount Prospect, site of the new office of the Illinois Division of Employment Security. Mrs. Martha Kahle, office worker, looks over an unemployment compensation application. The office moved to the Mount Prospect site from Lee Street in downtown Des Plaines.

Twenty file for primary in Lake County elections

Filing for the March 16 primary election in Lake County has closed with 20 candidates filing for countywide offices.

Offices generating the most interest were those of coroner and circuit clerk, in which incumbents have announced they will not seek reelection.

Running for Lake County coroner are Democrats John Miholic of Waukegan, John Vavrusa of Gurnee, Marion Faber of Waukegan and Charles Rose of Waukegan.

Republicans running for the coroner post include Robert Babcox of Grayslake, Alon Foreman of Wildwood, William Kennedy of Waukegan and Herbert Horton Sr. of Antioch.

LAKE COUNTY circuit clerk candidates include Democrats Bertha Ogrin and Mary McCrea Cizerle, both of Waukegan.

Running as Republicans for the circuit clerk's office are Paul R. Hatten of Zion, Harry Thomas of Libertyville and Dawn Marie Mardoian of Waukegan.

Incumbent State's Atty. Jack Hoogasian is running unopposed in the Republican primary for that office.

Democrats running for state's attorney include Elliot Bacall and Nello Gamberdino both of Deerfield, and Dennis Ryan of Libertyville.

Frank Nustra of Highwood, incumbent recorder of deeds, is running unopposed in the Republican primary, while Lawrence Dennis of Mundelein and Dona Rink of Round Lake are running for the Democratic nomination for recorder of deeds.

RUNNING FOR Lake County auditor are Democrats Walter Griffin of Waukegan and Dennis Siena of Wheeling, and Republicans Clyde Barnes Jr. and Robert J. Milton, both of Lake Forest. Incumbent Auditor John Darrow is not running for re-election.

Albert E. Poole, C. Stewart Richmond and William E. Brook will run unopposed for three six-year terms on the regional school board. A four-year regional school trustee post will have two candidates, George W. Heiring and Minna S. Novick.

Candidates for county board from District Five include Democrats Gerald C. Roberts of Wheeling, C. L. Parker of Mundelein, Julian Guerrero Jr. of Gurnee and Marcella Jewell of Gages Lake.

Republicans running for county board in District Five include Herman E. Rhodes of Libertyville, H. Don Morris of Wildwood, Allen L. Kracower of Lincolnshire, Edwin L. Matus of Libertyville, Marsh Keehn of Mundelein, Keith Pederson of Mundelein, Paul Gerst of Libertyville and Oscar Lind of Waukegan.

Two county board seats are up for election in Dist. Five.

Alternate sewer route OKd for Long Grove

An alternate route for an inceptor-sewer line through Long Grove was approved Tuesday by the Lake County Regional Planning Commission.

No cost estimate on the alternate route has been prepared but county officials say it will cost more than the estimated $1.2 million cost of the original route.

A minority report is to be issued by three commission members who objected to the sewer line.

The line will hook the communities of Kildeer, Hawthorne Woods and Forest Lake to the Lake County Public Works Treatment Plant on the Des Plaines River. Construction is expected to start in three to five months and take a year to complete.

Officials of Long Grove objected to the original routing which would have taken the line through the Buffalo Creek bed. The alternate route approved by Long Grove and the regional planning commission follows Ill. Rte. 53.

LONG GROVE officials said they objected to the creek bed route because the line would damage the environment of the creek area, and would subject that portion of the village to pressures from developers.

Regional planning commission members opposing the new routing they felt an alternative method of serving the community should be studied.

Carole Boltz of Lincolnshire, Nelson Forrest of North Barrington and Homer LaPlant of Antioch voted against the interceptor line.

Forrest said he thought the communities could be served by an existing plant in Ela Township which would cost less and could be hooked up sooner.

PUBLIC WORKS Director Robert Degen disagreed saying a cost study done two years ago showed that regional sewer treatment was the least expensive method of service. The Ela plant does not have enough capacity to handle Forest Lake, Degen said.

Forrest said that Lake County lacks sufficient open space according to Northeastern Illinois Planning Commission figures and said "it is my concern that the installation of this inceptor will lead to tap ons in areas now designated as open space."

Nonvoting commission member, F. T. "Mike" Graham, said he believed the cost of the line could not be paid by residents of the communities to be served.

Degen replied that public works figures showed residents could support the cost of the line through user fees.

Proponents of the line cited health problems with faulty septic sewers in Forest Lake, as a reason for the line.

Court date for 'offender'

Trash violation 'a joke' with a $1,500 punchline

by JOE SWICKARD

"It's a joke," admits John Pancrantz, but the punchline could be a $1,500 fine for him.

And like all jokes it stops being funny the fourth time around.

Pancrantz, Arlington Heights, operates the Chicago Hospital Supply Corp., 750 Algonquin Rd., but he was spending Wednesday afternoon in court because of the way he has the Laseke Disposal Co. haul his trash.

It is alleged, and he admits, that the trash from his office is being picked up at his home. At issue is the manner in which the trash gets from the office to the home and into the Laseke truck.

I EMPTY THE wastebaskets into a couple of small plastic bags," Pancrantz said, holding his hands about a foot apart, "and I put them in my car and take them home."

Thus the conflict arises. Laseke has the exclusive trash hauling contract within the village. A violation of the Laseke contract is a violation of village ordinances, and Pancrantz is charged with violating three sections of that contract.

Specifically, he is charged with: (1) transporting refuse in other than an authorized packer (truck); (2) removing trash in an unauthorized manner, and (3) disposing of trash in an unauthorized manner.

The offenses carry a maximum fine of $500 per day on each count.

After sitting for 90 minutes in Associate Judge Charles A. Alfano's court, Pancrantz was called to the bar of justice.

THIS IS THE fourth time in court on this," he said, holding up the appropriate number of fingers.

Village Prosecutor Ernest Blomquist acknowledged the defendant's "point of view is not unreasonable," but requested a conference before the court decided, adding the village's case has merit as well.

"How can you say that," Pancrantz asked, "when three times the court has said that the village position has no merit?"

Indeed, this was the fourth time he had answered the call of justice to tell the court what he does. On each previous occasion the court has agreed with him.

Alfano continued the case until Jan. 21, 1976.

OUTSIDE THE courtroom, Pancrantz explained his side of the situation.

His office has six employes who generate waste paper in the line of their work. That amount for one week fills the two litter bags he puts in his car and takes home.

"I'm living up to the law. Laseke Disposal Co. picks up the trash," he said.

But they don't pick it up at his office.

"Laseke never asked me for my business. I don't give my business to people who don't ask for it," he said.

A SPOKESMAN for Laseke was unavailable for comment after the court session.

Pancrantz said he had no idea of the cost of having the waste paper picked up on Algonquin Road. A check with the village health department, which oversees the garbage collection showed the minimum commercial rate is $3.82 per cubic yard per pick up.

But the cost isn't the issue, Pancrantz said.

"It's the same as recycling. Are they going to ticket everybody who carries newspapers to a recycling center?" he asked.

Health inspectors viewed his office and find no violations other than his carrying the waste paper home.

"If I lose, I'll pay the fine. But I don't see how I can. The other three times, It's been dismissed," he said.

But Wednesday there was no dismissal, and like most other afternoon dramas, this one is to be continued . .

Shelk appointed to police, fire panel

John A. Shelk Jr., 177 Sunrise, Wheeling, has been appointed to the Wheeling Police and Fire Commission.

Shelk's appointment was approved this week by the Wheeling Village Board. He succeeds William E. Fogel, who resigned from the commission in October for business and personal reasons.

Tires worth $472 taken in motel theft

Burglars stole 14 tires worth $472 from the O'Hare American Inn, 2175 Touhy Ave., after breaking into a room containing the items, Des Plaines police said Wednesday.

The burglars apparently broke off a door knob to gain entry.

Police also said a television set, washing machine, plants and knick-knacks were stolen when burglars broke into the home of Frances Drogos, 591 Waikiki Dr.

The burglars broke into the home through an attached garage.

History unit, park merger talks tonight

The Wheeling Park Board tonight will consider a possible merger of the park district and the Wheeling Historical Society.

Representatives of the historical society last month asked the park board to consider a merger, citing as one advantage the district's potential to levy a museum tax.

State statutes allow park districts to levy a nonreferendum museum tax of 1.5 cents per $100 assessed valuation. Several neighboring park districts, including Palatine, Elk Grove Village and Buffalo Grove, have used the tax funds to develop historical museums.

Other advantages of affiliation cited by the historical society include:

- The society could better preserve community artifacts.
- The park district could provide leadership and coordination of activities through cooperative planning.
- The park district could assist in membership promotion for the society.

Park board members said they are concerned about the society's request to spend funds without park board approval. Commissioners said if the park district is levying a tax, it should have the authority to decide how and when the funds can be spent.

In other action, the board will consider naming the recently purchased 10-acre Lichtner Farm park site. The meeting will be at 8 p.m. at Heritage Park, 222 S. Wolf Rd.

Impact study of Lake County road work OKd

Preliminary environmental impact statements for two major federal highway projects were approved Tuesday by the Lake County Regional Planning Commission.

The projects are extension of Ill. Rte. 53 north of Dundee Road in Cook County north to Ill. Rte. 120 in Lake County, and extension of Ill. Rte. 120 west into McHenry County and to the Wisconsin border.

A final environmental impact statement on the projects is expected within a month, and construction is expected to start before next June. No timetable for conpletion has been set.

COST OF THE Ill. Rte. 53 extension is estimated at $84.2 million, with $58.9 million paid by a federal grant and the remainder by the state. The Rte. 120 project cost is estimated at $67.3 million, with $47 million paid by the federal government and the remainder by the state.

Construction of some overpasses and acquisition of land between Dundee Road and Rte. 22 should start before next July, according to the Illinois Highway Dept.

The regional planning commission recommended changes in the plans, including deferment of construction of four intersections and reduction of the size of the Rte. 53 extension north of Rte. 22.

The commission recommended that intersections on the new Rte. 53 at Old Rte. 53, Peterson Road and Midlothian Road be deferred indefinitely. Planner Mark Frank said the intersections were in areas designed for low growth on comprehensive plans. Remaining intersections are at Rte. 22 and Rte. 176.

THE STATE recommendation was for the road to be six lanes wide all the way to Rte. 120, but the planning commission recommended that it be six lanes to Rte. 22 and four lanes the remainder of the route. Frank said the size reduction was due to traffic projections made by the county.

An intersection with Wilson Road on the Rte. 120 project also was recommended for deferral to discourage growth.

The extension of Rte. 53 is to pass through the western portion of Long Grove, the eastern fringe of Hawthorne Woods and through the western edge of Mundelein, meeting with the Rte. 120 project just south of Grayslake.

The Rte. 120 project passes south of the Round Lake communities and exits Lake County just north of the Volo Bog.

LeFrancais' request for rebuilding OKd

The Wheeling Village Board has approved resubdivision of lots at 269 and 283 S. Milwaukee Ave. to rebuild the LeFrancais Restaurant.

The restaurant, 269 S. Milwaukee Ave., was gutted by fire in July. Owners of the building want to rebuild it and purchase adjoining property at 283 S. Milwaukee Ave., where they will live.

The restaurant will include a main dining room with seating for 63, a cocktail area for 16 and a banquet room accommodating 28 persons. Parking will be available for 42 cars.

Town hall bid opening next month

The Wheeling Township Board of Auditors will open bids early in January for construction of the proposed town hall, 1620 N. Arlington Heights Rd.

The site for the new $650,000 town hall was recently cleared by Trapani Construction Co., Mount Prospect, general contractors for the project. The removal of a house and several other structures on the property cost about $1,500, said Ethel Kolerus, township supervisor.

Construction of the two-story, Colonial-style building is expected to begin in February and will take about six months to complete, depending on weather conditions, she said.

"Things are moving right along on schedule. We have applications in now for the permits we need to start the job," Mrs. Kolerus said.

ARCHITECTURAL plans for the new hall, which will provide space for township and social service agency offices, also have been made final, she said.

Most of the social service agencies that receive annual federal revenue sharing funds from the township will be given rent-free office space on both levels of the new building. Township offices and a multi-purpose room for community use will be located on the first floor of the structure.

Agencies that will have office space in the town hall include: Northwest Mental Health, Shelter Inc., Omni-House: Youth Services Bureau in Wheeling and the Salvation Army Counseling Service.

Parking for a maximum 63 cars will be located at the west side of the town hall, and the main entrance to the building will be on the east side, off Arlington Heights Road, she said.
